Probe Asked Of Oswald Diary Leak

WASHINGTON (AP) — Disturbed by publication of a major item of evidence in its investigation of President John F. Kennedy's assassination, the Warren Commission has asked a full FBI investigation of how parts of Lee Harvey Oswald's diary got into print.

It wants to find out how the diary of the sharpshooter accused of assassinating Kennedy in Dallas last November "was obtained and whom it was obtained from" before it was quoted over the weekend in copyright stories in the Dallas Morning News.

The probe was announced Monday night by J. Lee Rankin, chief counsel of the presidential commission headed by Chief Justice Earl Warren. Rankin

State Election Law Survey Under Way in Warren Co.

A survey on election laws and methods in Warren County is under way today. Two representatives from the University of Pennsylvania are consulting with the county election board, interested civic organizations and professional groups in regard to the many facets attending election procedure.

COL. RALPH Cleland and James Brown have been dispatched here and to five other counties by the Governor's advisory commission on elections and election laws. Asked today, if this current survey, was motivated by the much publicized charges of election frauds in areas such as Philadelphia, the experts denied any relationship.

It was explained that the Commission, appointed by Gov. William Scranton in 1963, is charged to review and study generally the election laws of the Commonwealth with particular reference to the authority and responsibility and methods of appointments of watchers.

ALSO TO BE studied is the manner in which election board officials are selected; the methods of training; pay, power, duties and responsibilities of the election officials and other related matters.

Cleland told The Times-Mirror today that they were also interested in learning the cost of an election per registered voter; the absentee ballot statistics; methods and problems of voting and the number of voters requiring assistance.

IN ADDITION to the facts about voting procedure in the county, the two specialists are also seeking opinions from the county chairmen of both major political parties and will also be assisted by the League of Women Voters.

A lengthy questionnaire is to be completed and analyzed by the men from the University for the local election board.

Attorney General Walter A. Anderson serves as chairman of the advisory commission on elections and election laws.

Commissioners' Surplus Food Stand Gains Backing

The move by the Warren County Commissioners to gain support in their protest against too stringent regulations in the surplus food program appears to be gaining some support.

A LETTER from Howard P. Davis, Food Distribution Division, U. S. Department of Agriculture, indicated that the State Dept. of Property Supplies may request an amendment to the state's plan of operation to provide liberalization of liquid resources standards for the food distribution program.

The amendment would apply particularly to the aged and handicapped groups.

Davis advised that the department would give prompt and careful consideration to such proposals. The Warren County action, in form of a resolution, claimed that permitting liquid assets of only three times the maximum allowable monthly incomes creates poverty, encourages more applications for institutions and public assistance and places a penalty on being old.

ARLIN M. ADAMS, Secretary of the State Department of Public Welfare, in Warren last week, advised that he has also taken action against what he considers too stringent limitations in surplus food eligibility requirements. Adams has contacted Pennsylvania senators and representatives to request that Secretary of Agriculture Orville Freeman be urged to raise the limitations.

Under the present set-up, federal legislation requires that standards be met which are in relation to the state's public welfare programs and that the commodities are to be distributed to needy program. Pennsylvania was the last of 48 participating states to adopt liquid assets limitations.

OTHER MEETINGS with the county commissioners have stressed the fact that state welfare authorities must establish reasonable eligibility criteria on income and resources, which will insure participation by persons in economic need. In other counties, who appear to share the views of the commissioners here, legislators have reminded that to change the present state welfare structure and criteria would definitely necessitate increased taxes.

Secretary Adams indicated that Secretary Freeman on his initiative, can alter surplus food regulations. From the federal level, the head of the Food Distribution Dept. has said:

"Thus in the event that the State Dept. of Property and Supplies should request an amendment to the state's plan of operations

Castro's Sister Defects

MEXICO CITY (AP) — Fidel Castro's sister Juanita has defected, charging that the Cuban prime minister betrayed his revolution and sold out Cuba to the Soviet Union.

"The people of Cuba are nailed to a cross of torment imposed by international communism," Juanita Castro Ruz said Monday night in an emotion-charged statement to Mexican television commentator Guillermo Vela.

With tears in her eyes and her voice breaking, the 41-year-old woman read a six-page denunciation of the Cuban regime headed by her brothers Fidel and Raul.

Miss Castro, one of seven Castro brothers and sisters, refused to say how she came to Mexico from Cuba. Her sister Emma has lived in Mexico City since her marriage three years ago to a Mexican engineer.

Miss Castro said she had supported her brother's revolution against dictator Fulgencio Batista by collecting money, arms and medicine in Cuba and abroad. After his victory she dedicated herself to building schools and hospitals, she said, but she soon realized Castro had abandoned the ideals of his revolution and "we were being deceived."

She said there are now 75,000 political prisoners in Cuba and the island is "an enormous prison surrounded by water."

$250,000 Installation Being Built

Penelec's New South Substation To Expand Power Potential Here

In an effort to meet anticipated expanding future electrical needs of its customers in the Warren area, Pennsylvania Electric Company is constructing a new substation, located along U.S. Route 6, approximately one mile south of Warren. This was confirmed by C. L. McMillen, Penelec's Warren district manager.

TO BE KNOWN as the Warren South Substation, the $250,000 project will provide reinforcement and back-up protection for the expanding industrial area south of Warren, and it also will provide an additional source of power for homes, farms, and business establishments in the Warren area. It is expected that the new facility will be energized and placed in service by early fall.

The Warren South Substation will receive power from the Warren-Lewis Run 115 KV line at 115,000 volts and step it down to 34,500 and 12,500 volts for delivery to the Warren area.

APPROXIMATELY one-half mile of 34,500 volt transmission line is being constructed to distribute power from the new substation. This will enable the Warren industrial area to obtain power from two direct 34,500 volt lines, with provision for two additional 34,500 volt circuits as the need arises. The 12,500 volt system for local distribution, which formerly was served from Penelec's Stoneham Substation, also will be served from the Warren South Substation. Stoneham is located along U.S. Route 6, about three miles southeast of Warren. It is expected that Stoneham substation will be retired shortly after the new substation is placed in service.

The automated Warren South Substation will house a 115 KV switching and transformer structure, a 34.5 KV structure with four 34.5 KV oil circuit breakers, and a 12.5 KV structure with three 12.5 KV oil circuit breakers. The modern equipment installed at the substation will be controlled and monitored from Penelec's Warren Electric Generating Station.

WORK ON the Warren South Substation was started in November, 1963—with initial grading of the area. Final grading and foundation work began on January 16, 1964.

McMillen said that the $250,000 project is another indication of Penelec's faith in the future of the Warren area. He also stated that the project is "another excellent example of an investor-owned electric utility's willingness and ability to provide needed facilities—without the aid of any taxpayers' dollars—to meet the expanding electrical needs of customers in factories, homes, farms, and offices in Penelec's 33-county service area."

Scranton, Goldwater Digging for Votes in Midwest States

Governor Appears Before Illinois Unit

CHICAGO (AP) — Gov. William W. Scranton of Pennsylvania, scrambling to prevent a first-ballot nomination of Republican presidential contender, Sen. Barry Goldwater, vies for votes with the Arizona senator today.

The two will make separate one-hour request appearances before the key Illinois Republican delegation to the July 13 San Francisco convention. Also to appear is Harold Stassen, another candidate for the presidential nomination.

The latest Associated Press poll of delegates lists 693 tentatively committed to Goldwater and 138 for Scranton. Thirty-nine of the 58 Illinois delegates are pledged to Goldwater, 1 to former Vice President Richard M. Nixon and 18 uncommitted.

Scranton, while on a delegate seeking drive in the South Monday, challenged Goldwater to a face-to-face debate before the Illinois delegation. The challenge was ridiculed by Goldwater, who said, "Why should I stand in front of a delegation that I already have and argue with another Republican?"

For Scranton, the meeting today will put his appeal to Republican delegates squarely on the line.

Illinois GOP Central Chairman Victor Smith, who is also co-chairman of the delegation, told The Associated Press he expects the delegates to vote their preference after the meeting.

"It might be a good idea to get the delegation more or less on record and end all the speculation," Smith said.

Smith said he did not expect Scranton to fare well in his quest for more delegates. "I would say Goldwater's position is real fine," he said.

Goldwater Seeks Delegates in Illinois-Michigan Area

By WALTER R. MEARS
WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Barry Goldwater goes prospecting for Republican National Convention delegates in Illinois and Michigan today after a New Jersey decision that kept that delegation uncommitted and buoyed the hopes of his supporters there.

Heckled by a throng of civil rights demonstrators, Goldwater took his case to the New Jersey delegation in Trenton Monday night. He spent an hour in a closed-door caucus, then slipped out through the hotel garage and a back street to avoid the milling, shouting throng of pickets—and Goldwater fans—that packed the sidewalks.

New Jersey delegates conferred for an hour, then decided not to vote on any commitment now in the race for the Republican presidential nomination.

"They voted to go to San Francisco and find the full facts when they get out there and then make up their minds at that time," said the state chairman, Webster B. Todd. He said Goldwater "made a very good impression."

Judy Fernald, co-chairman of the senator's New Jersey forces, predicted he would get 15 or 20 of New Jersey's 40 votes.

Sen. Clifford P. Case, who favors Pennsylvania Gov. William W. Scranton, said he was sorry the delegates decided against a pledge. Case said he expects two-thirds or more of the 40 delegates will vote for Scranton at the convention opening July 13.

The New Jersey count now, according to an Associated Press survey lists 12 delegates for Scranton, nine for Goldwater, one for New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller, three for former Vice President Richard M. Nixon and 15 uncommitted.

Thirty-nine of the 58 Illinois delegates back Goldwater, one favors Nixon, and the others are not committed.

Goldwater's appeal to Michigan delegates will come at Lansing tonight. Four Michigan delegates have already declared their support for the senator. The other 44 are tied to Gov. George Romney — to support him as a favorite son or follow his lead at the convention.

Hollywood Reporting

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—After a four-year absence from his art, Fred Astaire is dancing again—and you should see his Watusi.
You'll get a chance next fall with the airing of the musical comedy he is doing with Barrie Chase for the Bob Hope Chrysler Theater. He has been filming the show at Universal City. It's always a pleasure to see the old master back in action.

There is only one Astaire approach to his dancing; that is one of perfectionism. His numbers will occupy only seven minutes of the hour show, but he took two full weeks to rehearse them with Barrie and his choreographer, Hermes Pan.

One number is in the oldtime Astaire style, a solo with a cane to punctuate his taps. The other is a smooth ballroom number with Barrie. Then they team for a light-hearted Watusi. The dance is the rage of the younger citizens, who stand a few feet apart and engage in angular contortions.

What does Fred think of the Watusi?

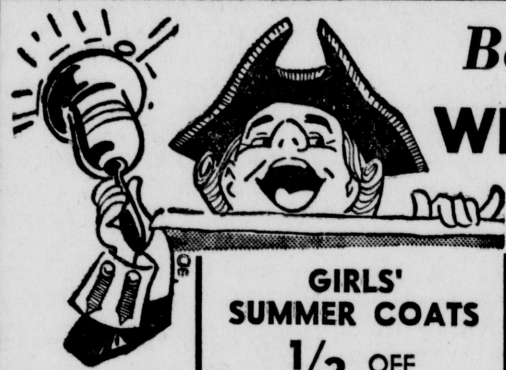

"Oh, I think it's a lot of fun," he replied. "It's not really a dance, it's more of a movement, an expression. I've been around to a few of the spots to observe it, and the kids seem to have a great time doing it. The music plays real loud and everybody gets carried away."

"The Watusi is not for me, because I never go out dancing. But I think it's fine for those who enjoy it."

DAYTON, Ohio (AP) — Researchers at nearby Wright-Patterson Air Force Base are experimenting with a "tumbling airfoil" designed to transmit radio signals from the scene of a plane crash.

The device, attached near the tail of the plane, is released by impact switches that flip the small radio far enough from the crash to be free of fire and explosion but close enough to guide rescue planes to the scene.

Dear Abby . . .

By ABIGAL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I always thought mental telepathy was a lot of bunk, but because of my own experience I am now convinced that there is something to it.

I live in Glendale, California, and my boy friend lives in Buffalo, New York. As you know, it's three hours earlier in California than it is in New York. Well, lately, I have been waking up at exactly 4 o'clock every morning, just as though an alarm clock had gone off. It's the craziest thing! I wake up, and when I look at the clock, it's always 4 a. m. sharp. My boy friend says he gets up at 7 a. m. every morning, and the first thing he thinks of when he opens his eyes is me. I KNOW that is what is waking me up. His thought waves are just that powerful. When I tell people this, they look at me like I'm nuts. I KNOW I am right. How can I sleep through his thought waves?

IN LOVE IN GLENDALE
DEAR IN LOVE: Don't fight it. Either move into his time zone until you can marry the guy, or ask him not to think of you until 10 a. m., Eastern Standard Time.

DEAR ABBY: Is it wrong to suggest "money" when relatives ask what my husband wants for graduation? We are a struggling young couple who have scrimped to put my husband through law school. A number of relatives have asked us what they can give us, and I have simply explained that if they gave us the money, we could put it toward a TV set. We need so many things for our apartment. Our families are now furious with us because they say we sound money hungry. Most of our relatives would spend around $20 or $25 on a gift anyway. Do you think we committed a breach of etiquette?

CURIOUS

DEAR CURIOUS: No. Those who ask what they may give are genuinely interested in giving something practical. Only a hypocrite would ask for a suggestion, and then be offended by an honest answer.

DEAR ABBY: I received an invitation to the graduation of a person I would not know if I saw him on the street. I am certain that he would not know me, either. I know his parents only slightly so I cannot for the life of me understand why I received this invitation. Am I expected to send a gift? Not knowing the person, it would be difficult to select an appropriate gift. I don't want to appear cheap and ignore the invitation. Have you any suggestions?

BEWILDERED

DEAR BEWILDERED: Under the circumstances, a message of congratulations is sufficient.

CONFIDENTIAL TO VIRGINIA BEACH: I am sorry that the letter signed VIRGINIA BEACH has given you a bad time, Virginia. In order to conceal the writer's identity, I sometimes use locations instead of names. The item signed VIRGINIA BEACH came from the resort town, Virginia Beach, Virginia. The writer's name is not for publication.

College Costs Will Continue Upward Trend During Year

College costs will continue to soar in the 1964-65 school year, with private men's colleges in the northeast and large private co-educational colleges in the west leading the rise with a median increase of 8 per cent over the year before, the Life Insurance Agency Management Association reported today. This represents an increase in college costs of about 50 per cent in the last eight years.

IN DOLLARS, the median increases in total basic charges will be $130 in private men's colleges, $78 in private women's colleges, $100 in private coeducational colleges, and $23 in in-state or college district residents in public coeducational colleges. ## Students with Summer Jobs Given Special Tax Break by U.S. Govt.

Students who have summer jobs or part-time jobs can earn up to $900 in 1964 without owing one penny of Federal income tax.

JOHN H. BINGLER, director of the Pittsburgh District of the Internal Revenue Service, explained that the new minimum standard deduction, another tax reduction provision of the 1964 Income Tax Law, allows an individual to take a deduction of at least $300 in lieu of itemized deductions or the standard deduction of 10 per cent of adjusted gross income.

Another special provision of the tax law, he explained, allows a parent, under certain circumstances, to claim a son or daughter as a dependent even though the student has income of more than $600 and is required to file an income tax return. This special provision applies to all full-time students.

EXEMPTIONS in these cases may only be claimed by the parents if they contribute more than half the student's support regardless of the amount earned by the student. (This same provision applies to children under 19 years of age whether or not they are in school).

The student, if he is 19 or over, must be engaged in full-time study at a recognized educational institution for at least 5 months of the taxable year.

Attendance at night school while holding a daytime job does not qualify; this is considered as part-time attendance.

EVEN IF a student is listed as a dependent on his parents' return, he may still claim his own exemption on his return. Employer will have furnished

Former Pastor Here To See Rights Trial

The Rev. Dr. Robert S. Steen, former pastor of First Presbyterian Church here and now general presbyter of the Presbytery of Western New York State, has been named a delegate to attend the civil rights trial of a Presbyterian minister. The case begins July 2.

The defendant in the proceedings is the Rev. Ralph Sundquist of Swarthmore, arrested for civil rights activity in Chester, Pa. The Presbytery also authorized a $1,000 contribution to be used for legal expenses.

Steen and another Buffalo resident, Elder Arthur Hardy, will remain in Chester for the proceedings.

Dr. Steen accepted his New York State post Jan. 1, 1956, having served the Warren Church since 1948 after a 15-year old pastorate in Royal Oak, Mich. He has served both Detroit and Erie Presbyteries as moderator and has been a member of nearly every Presbytery committee.

As general Presbytery, Dr. Steen does not have a congregation of his own, but is the administrative leader of more than 60 congregations making up the Buffalo-Niagara Presbytery. He returned to Warren in March of 1958 as special guest for the Lenton Preaching Mission.

held. These two figures will determine whether or not the student must file a return.

A return must be filed if the gross income including earnings for the year is over $600. If total earnings are less than $600 and income tax was withheld from the wages, a return should also be filed to have the withheld tax refunded.

Answer to any questions regarding individual cases may be obtained by phoning or visiting any local Internal Revenue Service office.

Let's Tell the Truth

IT IS VERY EASY to talk twaddle. Everyone does it, right down to the chap who wishes you a "good morning" with that drop-dead smile. The danger comes when we begin to think twaddle—and believe it. This is what is happening now in the cigarette battle.

First of all, the United States Surgeon General has clearly and without hedging, stated that cigarette smoking is dangerous. It can produce cancer and, more frighteningly, it has a very bad effect on the arteries.

This was some months ago. In the meantime, Congress has danced around the issue like a herd of moths around a flame—flirting with it but never quite getting close enough to burn. The idea of being brave and forthright and confirming by legislation the Surgeon General's findings fascinates the Congressmen, just as the flame fascinates moths. But they never quite took the plunge.

Now the Federal Trade Commission has girded up its loins and made the pronouncement: The cigarette manufacturers MUST label their products as dangerous no later than next year.

From the sounds emanating from the South, you'd think Fort Sumter was under attack again. The tobacco manufacturers saw their carefully nurtured "image" being shattered by this crass federal agency. Congress was invoked—and so was the power of the courts.

Well, we don't know what Congress will do. Congress is pretty much a bed of reeds—broken reeds, in many cases—that sways to every passing wind. But the courts may be another matter altogether. When the Surgeon General's evidence is presented, the cigarette manufacturers may find themselves with more than they can chew.

We do feel that there can be little or no quarrel with the Surgeon General's report. Unfortunately, this report has fallen among politicians—which is pretty much the same thing as the good seed that in the Bible, fell among weeds. What will happen to the report is pretty much what happened to the seed.

This whole business, if it is settled equitably, is going to be a hardship on the tobacco industry, the advertising business which is its dog-wagging tail, and a few other individuals and firms. But we do feel that the time has come for the government to be able to tap the cigarette smoker on the shoulder, in a manner of speaking, and say in a voice pitched to six-point type, "Excuse me, smoke that thing if you want to, but remember, it can be deadly."

Nobody quarrels about the deadliness of iodine. It has a warning on its label. The same applies to cigarettes.

'Ghosted' Letters

A FRIEND who is an avid and regular reader of Variety, the show biz trade paper, has sent us a clipping which speaks entirely for itself and says as follows:

Even "Letters to The Editor" are not immune to modern public relations technicians.

"Lady in A Cage," says the Paramount pressbook, "is a controversial motion picture and every effort should be made to capitalize on its controversy." To this end, the pressbook carries examples of two letters, one a "protest" letter and one a "rebuttal" letter, to be planted with local newspapers and thus to call attention to the pic.

Among other things, the protest letter states "To say that it was brutal, sick, immoral, perverse and full of sexy filth is putting it mildly . . . It's no wonder that crime, adultery and everything else results from our young people seeing this garbage. Let's put an end to pictures as sick as this one. . ."

The rebuttal letter answers, in part: "If its (sic) true that this picture is filthy, brutal and sick, its (sic) because it holds a mirror up to society . . . so let's stop sticking our heads in the sand. Those that don't want to face the truth about some things today can watch the dull pap that emanates from their television sets . . ."

The pressbook goes on to remind that exhibitor that the letters to the editor space "is space that you couldn't buy if you tried and is worth many dollars more than your normal advertising—AT NO COST."

It also cautions that the letters "should be planted in their proper order." In other words, some editors are bright enough to suspect something phony if the rebuttal letter is planted ahead of the protest letter.

Editorial Viewpoints Of Other Leading Area Newspapers

In Pennsylvania, with which we are mostly concerned, 46 per cent of the teachers of high school English did not major in that subject in college, about 36 per cent had fewer than 24 semester hours of college English instruction and about 55 per cent have taken no graduate work in English.

And obviously this is not enough. We notice right here that the command of the language among high school seniors is not satisfactory. We notice it because we constantly receive missives from youths communicating with us in behalf of themselves, organizations and school groups.

We cringe when we get them. We also cringe when we receive communications from some colleges. In several instances we have sent back to colleges copies of their news releases in which rudimentary boners in English were liberally scattered throughout.

Studies continually point out that the first college course in English continues to be one of the most difficult hurdles for college freshmen. Why? Because they have not had the proper background in their 12 years of association with the language in primary, elementary, junior high and high school.

One of the things which continues to amaze us is the fact that a history teacher, for instance, does not correct the English in a history theme, or that a social studies teacher grades only for the quality of the students' work wherein it attaches to that particular field.

Mistakes in English and spelling go unnoticed or ignored if the grasp of the other subject is adequate.

This, in itself, is one of the most monumental laxities in our educational system.

Teachers and students alike must realize that if they cannot communicate, they are virtually lost.

This is a time for communication, effective, clear and concise.

Unless the student masters this before he leaves high school his future is dim indeed.

Gov. Johnson and LBJ

WASHINGTON — President Lyndon Johnson and Gov. Paul Johnson of Mississippi don't like to admit it, but they get along well together. If they talked about it, both would be hurt politically.

Inside fact is, however, that the two have conferred regarding the problem of protecting the army of civil rights workers under "Project Mississippi," and that Gov. Johnson is just as anxious to prevent disorder and crime in Mississippi as any Northerner.

Gov. Johnson was elected on a segregationist ticket, defeating moderate ex-Gov. Jim Coleman, who is a personal friend of Lyndon Johnson's. They served together in the House of Representatives as secretaries to Congressmen.

However, though Lyndon Johnson was personally disappointed at Coleman's defeat, he has appreciated the cooperation given him by Gov. Paul Johnson.

Paul's grandfather was also Governor of Mississippi, and Mississippi Negroes say that he did more to advance their cause than any other governor in history.

Gov. Johnson's problem is at the county level. He has difficulty controlling local sheriffs and deputy sheriffs, who are close to the White Citizens Councils and have turned Mississippi at the county level into a police state.

NOTE — Bobby Kennedy has sent the so-called "Hoffa task force" to Mississippi. This is the small army of Justice Department sleuths which the Attorney General used "to get Hoffa"—one of the objectives his late brother promised during his campaign for President.

President Johnson faced a very sad task the other day when the parents of the two white boys who disappeared in Mississippi called at the White House.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Goodman and Mr. and Mrs. Nathan Schwerner had come down from New York to see the President, and just as they were about to be ushered into his office an FBI telegram was handed him that the car used by their sons had been found—burned and totally demolished.

The President hesitated. There was no indication at that time as to whether or not the bodies of the three boys were in the car. He didn't want to distress the parents. Nevertheless, he felt he had to give them the facts.

"I'm sorry to give you this news," he said and read the telegram. The Schwerners and Goodmans took the news without flinching, said they were proud of their sons and that, if it had to be done over again, they would still authorize the trip to Mississippi.

All sorts of queer characters from coast are turning up to spur segregationist battles. It's escaped national attention, but one man came all the way from California to participate in the St. Augustine attempt to block civil rights. He is Rev. Conrad Lynch, California organizer of the National States Rights Party.

Another who turned up in St. Augustine is Jesse Stoner, attorney for the National States Rights Party, who went to Florida from Birmingham.

Meanwhile, today in Los Angeles, a significant rally has been called by the White Citizens Council for tonight at the Ambassador Hotel, to urge removal of the Rumford Act from the California statute books. This is the act which bars discrimination in housing. A vote to abolish it comes up in California next November.

Significantly, the rally to mobilize support against the Rumford Act is being promoted in part by Kent H. Steffgen, former organizer for the John Birch Society, who mailed out invitations. Ex-Congressman John Rousset, chief sparkplug of the John Birch Society on the West Coast, admits that Steffgen was a paid organizer for the Birchites but got fired. He is now the first paid organizer for the White Citizens Council.

Fred Hayman, manager of the Ambassador, says he is canceling reservations for the meeting.

Meanwhile, June 27 was set by the Minutemen and other sub rosa groups as the kick-off time to start fighting against civil rights in every way possible from coast to coast.

Rep. Everett Burkhalter, the California Democrat who defeated a John Birchite Congressman, is fed up with Washington and is retiring after one term in Congress. However, he is leaving behind some important ideas for his colleagues to chew on.

One is a proposal that Congress adopt an electronic, push-button system of voting.

"It takes about 30 minutes for the house staff to call the roll," says Burkhalter, who has made quite a study of Congressional inefficiency.

"In contrast, electronic voting takes only 20 to 30 seconds. Thirty-one states already have this equipment in one or both of their legislative houses." This, incidentally, includes Arkansas and Alabama.

A button on every Congressman's desk would permit him to vote immediately, and the vote would be recorded in half a minute. In addition, Congressmen would not be in the position of looking around the room to see how others voted, and then following the herd instinct by voting the same way.

Rep. Burkhalter has introduced a resolution asking for a thorough study of push-button voting. It could be a monument to his short two years in Washington.

Cultural 'Thaw' Ending?

Better mark his name down. It's Josif Brodsky—or, in its Anglicized form, Joseph Brodsky, and it could be that this young man, rated by his contemporaries as being a gifted poet, will compel Nikita Khrushchev to make a final decision one way or another in this business of liberalizing intellectual existence inside the Soviet Union.

Brodsky is currently in a labor camp in the far north of Russia, near Archangel, where he has been condemned to carry manure and do other demeaning work on a state farm for five years. His crime, nominally, is that he is a "parasite" or a "vagabond." Like other independent intellectuals in the Soviet Union he would have disappeared without trace if prominent personalities in the Soviet literary and art world—Samuel Marsak, the composer Dmitri Shostakovich, among others—had not protested his sentence, which was decreed even before a trial.

The protest was smuggled out of Russia to form the basis of an article in the Literary Journal edited by Andre Enczi, a Hungarian anti-Communist, in Paris. What makes it worthy of international note is that its signers, who are too important for Khrushchev to touch without tearing the fabric of Soviet intellectual life apart, insist that the trial of Brodsky was "a staged trial." It was, so the protestors' letter reads, "nothing but the condemnation of the profession of writing itself. The shouts, interrupting the proceedings, such as 'all writers are parasites!' or 'kick them out of Leningrad,' are the result of the hatred of intellectualism, fomented in order to further the preparations and proceedings of the trial, and a natural consequence of same."

So there the issue is joined by leading Soviet writers and artists against the bureaucrats and party functionaries who resent giving intellectuals any freedom to think. Brodsky's downfall resulted from a diary and a few manuscripts which he wrote at the age of 16 or 17 (he is now 24). The diary came into the hands of the Leningrad KGB, or secret police, who deduced from it that Brodsky, as a boy, had "fostered anti-Soviet feelings." Although poems and translations which he wrote at a later period attracted the attention of such well-known Soviet writers as Anna Akhmatova and Kornel Chukkovsky, the old diary was made the basis for an accusation by a Stalinist functionary in the "people's militia" of Leningrad that Brodsky was an "irresponsible and cynical parasite."

On the day he was released from a Moscow sanatorium, where he had gone to be treated for a nervous collapse, Brodsky was seized for "trying to evade the proceedings of the law." There followed the staged trial, and the banishment to the far north.

All of this was taking place at a time when Khrushchev was trying to create an image for himself as the man who had brought an end to Stalinist persecutions of artists and writers. The ironical element in Brodsky's arrest as a "vagabond" is that the same charge was once made against Maxim Gorky, one of the grand luminaries of Russian literature, by the Czar's government. (Gorky was arrested in the city of Nizhni Novgorod, which after the Revolution was renamed Gorky. So it's a case of the old Russian despotism cropping up under new guise—"the more it changes, the more it's the same thing.")

The protest of the intellectuals in the Brodsky case puts it firmly up to Khrushchev to fish or cut bait in the matter of purging Soviet cultural life of Stalinist repressions. The odds are that Khrushchev will wriggle a bit and then end up on the side of the disguised sort of Stalinism. Note that Brodsky was not condemned as a traitor to Communism, but merely as a loafer who must be rehabilitated through forced labor. Any writer is vulnerable to this sort of treatment in Russia, for Khrushchev does not consider poetry to be work. In the past Khrushchev has taken a roundabout way of getting rid of writers who bother him. Yevtushenko, the poet who protested against Soviet anti-Semitism, has evidently been subjected to banishment from Moscow, although reports have it that he was brought back momentarily to appear at a reception for Marlene Dietrich. Other offending writers have been stashed away in asylums, as was reported in this column some months ago.

Khrushchev is so concerned about his writers' "mental health!"

Other Comments...

"The situation in the teaching of English at all levels of American education is grave," Dr. Francis E. Keppel, United States commissioner of education, reported at a meeting of the Modern Language Association last year.

Two years earlier, his predecessor, Dr. Sterling M. McMurrin, had said that "nothing in American education is so important as upgrading the teaching of English."

Schools in general allot 20 to 30 per cent of the teaching time and pupil and faculty attention to the teaching of English. Obviously this is not enough.

Two Shows To Be Movies

Broadway producers George W. George and Frank Granat, heroes of this past season's best theatrical success story, report that they have sold both of their hit shows to the movies. The price tags are interesting: "Any Wednesday," an amusing but trivial little sex comedy, brought $750,000; "Dylan," a splendid play about a literary giant, went for a mere $250,000. . . Secretary of State Dean Rusk may step out of his important post in the very near future, and his departure would be followed by quite a few changes in the State Dept. Washington insiders don't believe a successor has been chosen, but they put Adlai Stevenson high on the list of possibilities.

In Las Vegas, proprietors of gambling establishments, "piece men," behind-the-scenes bosses and even some high rollers are doing no talking at all about the subpoenas recently handed to them by the FBI. Some of the big gamblers, who feel they can't stand a checking, have been scared away. . . Doris Day may make minor headlines by trying to get out of her commitment to do the movie "Made in Paris" for Metro. She isn't too pleased with the script as it now stands, and they're due to start shooting in October. . . Darren McGavin won't do a Yul Brynner when he co-stars with Rise Stevens in "The King and I" at Lincoln Center. He just couldn't bear the thought of shaving his head, so he persuaded composer Richard Rodgers to let him play the role with the shortest possible crew cut—dyed black, of course. . . Reporters in Mexico might check Movita, Marlon Brando's estranged wife. Reports of a South-of-the-Border divorce are cropping up from New York to California.

Boardway Guessing Games: One of the most important nightclub on the Eastern seaboard—a showcase for "name" acts—is close to bankruptcy. The owner has had a bouquet of problems, including taxes, the general lack of business that prevailed in most places last Winter, and a succession of stars who cost a mint and didn't draw customers.

A featured actor is trying to get out of one of Broadway's smash hits. He's clashed with the director and the producer about the way his part was whittled down before opening night, and he complains that his presence in the cast is the best-kept secret in town.

Jerry Grayson, the talented young comedian at Mister J's, is a leading contender for the title role when Milton Berle's life story is filmed. Jerry's physical resemblance to Miltie is striking, and his delivery is much the same, too. (Of course, with Hollywood's insistence on big names for big pictures, Rock Hudson may wind up with the part.) . . If Jackie Gleason's accountants are wondering why his bank balance is $64.20 more than it should be, this department is happy to fill them in. The Great One issued a check in that amount to a little place near Yankee Stadium—the Stadium Pizza Parlor on 161st St.—for a load of "pies" he took along to nibble on during a ballgame. Since his photograph is on his checks as well as his signature, the owners have framed it and put it in the window. They've become neighborhood celebrities as a result—much better for their egos than plain old cash.

Keeping Well . . .

HOW OFTEN does lipstick irritate the lips? Not often, considering the vast number of women using this cosmetic several times daily. Five years ago a survey was conducted among several thousand American dermatologists and allergists.

Almost 90 per cent of the women with dermatitis and inflammation of the lips applied lipstick regularly. But tests showed that lipstick was responsible in only 14.4 per cent. Hair dyes were the culprits in 23.8 per cent.

The typical manifestations of contact dermatitis are dryness, cracking, scaling, and swelling. Less common are blistering, peeling, and weeping. The causative ingredient in lipstick usually is eosin, a chemical that makes the cosmetic more indelible. Hypoallergenic lipsticks do not contain this product. Fluorescent dyes and other constituents are less likely causes. Lipstick dermatitis is determined by doing patch tests on the skin with the victim's own lipstick.

The first rule of treatment is to stop the cosmetic and apply a cream or salve containing hydrocortisone. Complete recovery may take a few weeks because eosin remains in the cracks of the lips for some time. A hypo-allergenic lipstick is used thereafter.

The lips are exposed to many types of injury and irritation such as lip biting, exposure to sunlight, and contact with dentifrices, perfumes, drugs, and food. Chronic inflammation heals slowly, especially when scales and fissures are present. Healing is delayed by pulling or biting off shreds of tissue and moistening the lips with the tongue many times daily.

The lips also are a favorite spot for fever blisters (herpes simplex). They blossom out during fever, prior to menstruation, and following exposure to the sun. Chronic fatigue, undue tension, and allergy to certain foods may play a role.

G. H. L. writes: My 21-year-old son went to an insurance doctor, who said he had albumin in the urine. When the boy returned in two weeks for another urinalysis, there was no albumin. Could the doctor have made a mistake the first time?

REPLY—Yes, but it is unlikely. Traces of albumin often are found after exertion. In addition, some persons have albumin in the first morning specimen but not after they have been up and about for a while. Send stamped, self-addressed envelope for leaflet on albuminuria.

W. B. writes: My husband keeps on getting cysts in his right ear lobe. Is there any way to prevent these nuisances?

REPLY—Not to my knowledge, except to keep the ear clean and avoid squeezing the cysts.

Mrs. W. writes: Is it safe for an epileptic to have children?

REPLY—Yes. The condition is hereditary and there is a chance that the son or daughter also will develop the condition.

W. A. V. writes: Does eating too much oatmeal affect the heart?

REPLY—No. But it might affect the waistline, especially when served with sugar and cream.

D. W. writes: Are iron tablets good for arthritis?

REPLY—Yes, provided an iron deficiency coexists, which often happens in rheumatoid arthritis.

PEOPLE, ISSUES and POLITICS

HARRISBURG—The eleventh-hour drive of Pennsylvania's Governor Scranton for the Republican Presidential nomination is being compared with Wendell L. Willkie's come-from-behind blitz in 1940.

Willkie first took himself seriously as a Presidential candidate on May 11, 47 days before the convention in Philadelphia.

Scranton is behind the Willkie timetable. He made up his mind to go after the big prize the night of June 11 at Indiantown Gap, 32 days before the convention in San Francisco.

Willkie talked by telephone to the last Republican who had presided over the nation from the White House. Former President Herbert Hoover later said he thought Mr. Willkie might be "too radical."

Governor Scranton is ahead of the game here, if not by much, in his telephone exchanges with the last Republican to live in the White House. Former President Eisenhower didn't tell Pennsylvania's Governor he was for him or against him. He just didn't want to be part of a "cabal" against the front-running Senator Goldwater.

Twenty-four years ago, the late Joseph N. Pew, of Pennsylvania, said Willkie would be a "terrible" candidate.

Willkie replied: "I don't know Joe Pew personally and would not allow myself to become a part of his policy of returning to the uncontrolled days of Harding and Coolidge."

Today, John G. Pew Jr. says Scranton isn't in the same league with Goldwater, and he doesn't even think the Pennsylvania Governor would make a good running-mate for the Arizona Senator. "I would rather have someone a little more to the right."

Mr. Scranton has kept his peace on what he thinks of Mr. Pew.

In 1940, the Pew candidate was Pennsylvania's Governor, Arthur H. James. Less than a month before the convention, James still was insisting: "I am not seeking the Republican nomination." But "if the delegates find I'm the available man to carry on the fight," Mr. James was willing. Pennsylvania's delegation named him its "favorite son." There was one holdout in the 72-vote delegation, Lackawanna County's Everett A. Rosser. Later three others would join him.

Governor James made speeches blistering the "third termites" and President Franklin D. Roosevelt. He went to Minnesota and proclaimed the big issue as "Roosevelt or Peace."

A man who was to run for Governor of Pennsylvania 18 years later and lose, Harold E. Stassen, made the keynote speech at the Republican National Convention. The theme of his speech: "This un-American desire for a third term."

The man who was to run for Governor of Pennsylvania 18 years later and win, David L. Lawrence, made a speech at the Democratic State Convention. The theme of his speech: "Millions of Republicans would prefer to have a third-term than a third-rater."

The Democratic convention was held in the wake of a bitter primary campaign in which State Chairman Lawrence had suffered a smashing defeat at the hands of Sen. Joseph Guffey. Sixty-two of 67 county chairmen subscribed to a declaration which read:

"It is a tradition of the Democratic Party of long standing and practice to permit the senior candidate at the primary election to suggest the person upon whom shall rest the responsibility for the successful conduct of the business of the Democratic Party of State."

The warring factions then had a "kiss and make up" convention. Mr. Lawrence stepped out as chairman and was named Democratic national committeeman, and a new party chairman was named.

The parallel to what has just happened at this year's Democratic state convention is striking.

In 1940, Mr. Lawrence told a newspaperman: "It doesn't matter who runs for the Republicans. FDR will slaughter him."

Last week, Mr. Lawrence said almost the same thing: "It doesn't matter who the Republican candidate is, President Johnson will beat him."

This is the way it was only a few weeks before the Republican convention in 1940. New York's District Attorney, Thomas E. Dewey, was the front-runner. Ohio's Sen. Robert A. Taft was not far behind. Michigan had a "favorite son," Sen. Arthur H. Vandenberg, and there was Pennsylvania's James.

And there was that very late starter who was making a whirlwind push for delegates, Wendell L. Willkie.

Willkie trailed a bad third on the first ballot with 165, behind Taft who had 189, and far behind Dewey who had 368. But it was all downhill for Dewey after that and became a battle between the conservative Senator Taft and the liberal Willkie.

Willkie caught up with Taft on the third ballot and won on the sixth. It took 501 votes for the nomination. Willkie had 659, Taft had 314, and 11 delegates held out for Dewey to the bitter end.

That November Willkie polled more votes than any other Republican ever had before, but FDR won a third term with ease.

This is the way it was 24 years ago for Wendell L. Willkie who waged a last-minute campaign for the Republican Presidential nomination as Pennsylvania's Governor Scranton is doing today.

But the times have changed. Or have they?

'Civilian Cops' Eyed with Fear

By RALEIGH ALLSBROOK

NEW YORK (AP)—Auxiliary police perform vital services in many cities, but a growing civilian patrol movement is causing police concern here.

"We feel they are complicating rather than simplifying the problem," a Police Department spokesman said. "We can't let amateurs take over police work."

A Jewish group began a car patrol plan recently in Brooklyn in an effort to curb a rising number of attacks by hoodlums. The wife of a rabbi had been dragged from her home and raped.

The group's members now include both whites and Negroes and a number of religions are represented. Radio cars patrol the Crown Heights section from dusk to dawn.

Most large cities have civilian auxiliary police units, but operating under regular police jurisdiction.

Regular police generally train the units, uniforms of both usually are similar. In some cases, the auxiliary members are armed. Often they work without pay.

Much of their work is devoted to parade, park, traffic and similar assignments that keep them away from violence.

The Brooklyn group, called the Community Safety Patrol, operates independently and has resisted police efforts to have it join the police auxiliary.

When trouble develops, police are notified.

"There is no action we can take against them because they are not violating the law," the police spokesman said.

Los Angeles has two reserve police units, a city police group of 110 and 1,120 men with the county sheriff's office.

About half of the sheriff's reservists pair with regular officers in patrol cars, work in jails, and perform jobs similar to those of full-time deputies. Others serve on mountain rescue teams and in the sheriff's mounted posse.

They come from various walks of life and join for different reasons.

In New York, author Max Wylie patrols in Central Park two nights a week as part of the city's auxiliary police force.

His 21-year-old daughter, Janice, and her roommate, Emily Hoffer, were slain in their East Side apartment last year and Wylie says he is determined to do everything possible to prevent similar tragedies.

New York has an auxiliary force of 3,816 persons, but they have no more authority than civilians. The Central Park precinct is the only one in which they normally are sent out on patrol duty.

Portland, Ore., has nearly 500 auxiliary policemen to help its 650 regular officers. A bad windstorm hit the city on Columbus Day in 1962 and within an hour 150 auxiliary workers were on duty.

"We'd be hard put to get along without them," said Lt. Thomas W. Simmons, a regular policeman assigned to the group as liaison officer.

In Philadelphia, auxiliaries patrol the streets on weekends, help in parades, conventions and do traffic and other work. Police credit them with helping to cut down on robberies and muggings.

St. Louis, Mo., tried the plan seven years ago, but said it didn't meet the department's needs.

Jersey City disbanded its force several years ago after members lost interest.

Wanted: Legalized Gambling Dens

By STEPHEN M. AUG

CENTRAL CITY, Colo. (AP)—Central City residents want legalized gambling in this restored old mining camp—and they're determined that neither state nor Denver society is going to stop them.

At issue is the validity of a section of the Central City charter granted 100 years ago by Colorado's Territorial Legislature.

It says that Central City may "license, restrain, regulate, prohibit and suppress tippling houses, gambling houses, bawdy houses and other disorderly houses."

But several state statutes prohibit gambling and prostitution, and the state has its own liquor laws.

Whether gambling ever does return here depends on the outcome of a suit soon to be brought in court.

If Central City wins, it might even gain the right to have its own liquor laws. But gambling is the issue in the case, and it's supported by most of the community's 350 residents.

Gambling is opposed by the Central City Opera Association—the principal industry in the community—that draws about 750,000 tourists each year to this city 8,560 feet high in the Rockies 35 miles west of Denver.

The association has about 700 members—some 350 are principal contributors, and many are wealthy, influential members of Denver society.

Some Central City residents claim the association is trying to force the town into submission. The association says it may pull out if gambling is allowed in.

While nearly all Central City residents agree that the opera association has brought their community back to vibrant life from a quarter-century depression, they aren't all happy about having a one-industry town.

Bill Russell, the mayor, says that very little opera association money goes to the city. Nearly all association property is owned by the University of Denver and is tax free.

The association, says its president, Frank Ricketson, has spent about $2 million restoring old buildings to what is believed they were like in the '70s and '80s when the community was a booming gold mining center and one of the biggest cities in the state.

Central City has its seasonal problems. Its two-man police department must be increased to five during the summer. About one-third of the city's $30,000 annual budget goes for police.

Parking is another problem—

there aren't enough lots to handle all the tourists.

The city needs a new sewer system and water works and a bond issue would be necessary to finance them.

Central City residents are proud of a new fire truck and a new ambulance—financed by donations. A new firehouse was rebuilt by local residents.

Gambling, Russell says, "is the only way we can see we'll ever get off our knees."

MIRROR OF YOUR MIND

Can anyone "sleep like a log?"

Answer: Probably not. Many people claim this distinction, but Dr. Nathaniel Kleitman ("Sleep and Wakefulness," Univ. of Chicago Press) claims that "no normal person sleeps like a log." Every sleeper gets uncomfortable from staying in one position, just as he would while awake. To check this theory Dr. Kleitman rigged up a device on several bedsprings, and got electrical recordings of sleepers' mobility. Tossings and turnings ran from 20 to 60 per night.

Should you be a pal to your son? Answer: You can't. The age difference between father and son can range from 18 to 40 years, and the difference in outlook and interests can be even greater. They can enjoy each other's company and engage in some activities together, but any attempt at contemporary palship will end in disquieting failure. The natural relationship is that of father and son, each trying to understand what the other needs and wants, and each showing mutual respect and affection due the other.

Do heart attacks give advance warning? Answer: Often not, but an annual electrocardiogram is a good warning system for persons in high tension jobs. In a five-year study of fatal accidents in the Canadian Royal Air Force, post-mortem examinations of pilots were possible in 24 cases. Eight were found to have had coronary artery disease severe enough to be considered a cause of the accident. The RCAF now schedules annual EKGs for pilots to spot progressive cardiac changes.

GOP Studies Its Platform

WASHINGTON (AP)—Republicans are reaching the point where they will have to find some agreement among themselves—on a party platform—but until then they will continue rubbing sandpaper on their wounds.

Next week the 100-man resolutions committee meets in San Francisco to hold hearings on what form the platform should take when the Republican presidential convention opens there July 13.

It has been a confusing Republican year. Henry Cabot Lodge, U. S. ambassador to South Viet Nam won the New Hampshire presidential primary although he was far off in Southeast Asia and said he was not a candidate.

Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona and New York's Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller had campaigned hard in that unpredictable New England state. Then Rockefeller, by the polls, wasn't supposed to win in Oregon but he did.

While the polls said Rockefeller would win in California, it was Goldwater who won. When the Republican governors met in Cleveland in early June and some talked of stopping Goldwater, none stuck his neck out. Then Pennsylvanian William W. Scranton suddenly did. He announced he would be a candidate for the Republican nomination. He has been scooting around the country ever since, trying to make inroads on Goldwater but doesn't seem to have made any impressive ones yet.

Then last week Lodge resigned as ambassador, announced his sole reason for doing so was to come home to help Scranton stop Goldwater, and in the process got into a disagreement with other Republicans, including Scranton.

Lodge, who had been ambassador in Southeast Asia under the Democratic administrations of Presidents Kennedy and Johnson, said the war against communism there is on the right track and should not be a political issue this year.

But Goldwater, who has been criticizing the Democrats' Southeast Asian policy for months, said it most definitely is an issue. And Sunday so did Rep. William E. Miller, chairman of the Republican National Committee.

Even Scranton disagreed with Lodge. He said "as far as I am concerned, it is an issue." Where this is leading is hard to say.

Since Goldwater is a conservative and some of the other top Republican leaders are not—men like Scranton, Lodge, Rockefeller and Michigan's Gov. George Romney—they want a voice in the direction the party takes, even if the convention nominates Goldwater.

Lodge, Romney and Rockefeller are going to appear before the committee in San Francisco to say what they think the platform should contain. Goldwater has said he would like the platform to be merely a statement of principles rather than a list of specifics.

But if he gets the nomination, and at this moment his chances look unexcelled, he will need broad Republican support, not only from party leaders who now disagree with him but from rank-and-file Republicans, too.

This may induce him to compromise on the platform's contents.

For example: while a majority of Republicans in both houses of Congress voted for the civil rights bill, Goldwater voted against it. This may help him with some Southern Democrats but it angered some Republicans.

If they insist on a strong civil rights plank in the platform, it is possible Goldwater won't make an issue of it. He can explain that while he voted against the bill he would, as a presidential duty, enforce it if elected.

The platform problem may produce the convention's greatest heat.

You're Telling Me!

— By William Ritt —

A medical columnist suggests we should give up the unsanitary habit of shaking hands and adopt the eastern custom of bowing. Says it's more polite. And, we might add, should help reduce that waistline, too.

Some Asiatic women, we read, have rings tattooed around their fingers. Good idea—can't lose 'em and they never tarnish.

Historians claim that there have been more than 900 major wars in the last 2,500 years. Peace is wonderful—but it's not very consistent.

If we weren't so strong-minded we might even succumb to the temptation to say it looks like the guard business may be going to the dogs.

MR. AND MRS. GORDON EARL WILCOX, JR.

Diana Etheridge Is Bride In Saron Lutheran Church

YOUNGVILLE—Diana Jean Etheridge of 145 E. 39th St., New York City, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold C. Etheridge of Youngsville RD 1, and Gordon Earl Wilcox Jr. of Norfolk, Va., son of Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Wilcox Sr., also of Youngsville RD 1, were married in Saron Lutheran Church on June 20.

The 2 p. m. double ring ceremony was performed by the Rev. Marshall Gante. The church and altar were decorated with white candles, white gladioli and mums, with ivy. The wedding music was presented by the church organist, Mrs. Beverly Schnell.

GIVEN in marriage by her father, the bride was gown in white Chantilly lace over taffeta, styled with a scalloped neckline and long sleeves forming points over the hands.

Her nylon tulle veil fell fingertip length from a crown. She wore a silver cross, the bridegroom's gift, and carried a white Bible topped with a cascade bouquet of white roses, baby's breath and ivy.

THE BRIDAL attendants were Mrs. Patricia Schreckengost, sister of the bride, as matron of honor; Mrs. Nancy Keith, cousin of the bride, Sue Russ, sister of the bride, and Mary Peterson, a roommate.

Mrs. Schreckengost wore a light aqua street-length dress with matching accessories and carried a Colonial bouquet of pink carnations with matching streamers. The others wore jacket-dresses of pink lace over taffeta, pink shoes and hats. Their Colonial bouquets of pink carnations had white streamers.

KATHY Gustafson was the flower girl, wearing a white cotton eyelet-embroidered frock and carrying a basket of white daisies and baby's breath. Randall Schreckengost, nephew of the bride, carried the rings on a white satin heart-shaped pillow.

The best man was Richard Wilcox. Ushering guests were Lawrence Rodgers of Panama, N. Y., cousin of the bridegroom; Clinton Schreckengost of Warren, brother-in-law of the bride; and Edwin G. Johnson of Jamestown, N. Y., cousin of the bride.

FOR HER daughter's wedding, Mrs. Etheridge chose a dress of dusty pink nylon and lace, with white accessories and a pink carnation corsage. Wearing yellow pompons, Mrs. Wilcox was wearing a white dactron with orange and pale yellow floral pattern.

Mrs. Minnie Etheridge, grandmother of the bride, was favored with a pink carnation corsage. The bridegroom's grandmother, Mrs. Leo Gern of Pleasant Township, was unable to attend but Mr. Gern was a guest.

IMMEDIATELY following the ceremony, a reception was given in the church social rooms for about 100 guests. The bridal table was centered with a four-tier wedding cake topped by a miniature bridal couple.

Aides were Mrs. Ruth Wilcox, aunt of the bridegroom, who cut the cake; Mrs. Janet Rodgers, his cousin, pouring coffee; Mrs. Linda Phillips, another cousin, serving punch; and Carol Pierce, cousin of the bride, managing the guest book.

AFTER a honeymoon in New Jersey and New York City, the bride will return to New York and the bridegroom to Norfolk. For travel, the bride selected a pink rayon suit with lace jacket and white accessories.

A graduate of Youngsville High and the Jamestown Business College, she is employed in New York City by the Lutheran Church in America.

Mr. Wilcox was graduated from Youngsville High and the Jamestown Business College, also.

Parties for the bride-elect were given by her attendants and Helen Anderson.

On and off the avenue for an idea here and there that might appeal to you too. Like those wonderful wireless clocks that never cease to fascinate me. These built-in wonders will add to any room—a touch of luxury plus convenience over the fireplace, a modern touch to a rumpus room, beauty and practicality in the kitchen.

Completely self-contained, these clocks operate a whole year or more on one standard flashlight battery. They're as accurate as they are beautiful, with a jeweled movement which fits in an incredibly small space. Can be installed with regular household tools on all wall. Battery can be replaced in minutes.

Choose from polished or satin brass, copper, chrome, gold or black finish or appliance colors . . . arabic or Roman numerals, bar or coin dot markers. Let Mark Bevevino show you some of these beautiful clocks at Bevevino Electric Co.

For pleasant summer svenings, if you have a spacious enough lawn, have you tried croquet? We saw a set in Service Hardware. It's an old fashioned game but not nearly so tame as many might imagine. We recall playing more than one cut-throat game with friends in Connecticut where it's very popular with the Madison Ave. and public relations crowd. It's a game of skill and can be as fast as you care to make it.

Vacation days are here, too, and that usually means traveling. No matter how lightly you're dressed, most everyone gets hot and sticky on the road. And if you do a lot of picnicking like we do, you'll welcome those wonderful fanfold moist towelettes that come packed 25 to a purse-sized box. You'll feel clean and refreshed in minutes. Get them at Gaughn's Drug Store.

Teen-agers and some of the younger fry will go wild over the Beate greeting cards at Sires United News store. These Hi Brow Studio cards and mad, mad, mad—and perfectly delightful in their own way.

Here's another lovely idea for summer. We thought of it because a friend just put up bamboo curtains on a summer porch, and we remembered how much we had enjoyed them in our New York apartment. Murphy's has some charming vinyl reed curtains that would be great for playroom, breezeway, porches, even in the kitchen. They deflect heat and glare and can be trimmed to any length desired. No washing, no ironing, just wipe clean. And they come in decorator colors—tangerine, mocha, avocado, antique gold, cherry, pink and blue.

We saw a good idea at Murphy's too for a gift for the smoker. The Vu-lighter by Scripto. There's a display of them at the cashier's desk on the Second Ave. side, and what a beautiful collection it is. This is the lighter that lets you know when the fuel is low, and there's nothing more exasperating than to run out when you're miles from the nearest supply. There's a great selection for sportsmen—colorful pictures of golfers, skiers, bowlers, hunters, pheasants, horses. And a nice selection for women in fleur-de-lis or sparkle designs. All in standard, compact or goldenglo styles.

It's a year for lace, for formal and semi-formal affairs. And today it's so easy to whip up for yourself a pretty shift or jacket dress, even a flaring evening coat. They've been featured in a number of recent magazines and you can get both the patterns and material at Levinson Brothers—white on white, beige over blue, black over rose and a host of other combinations.

Another idea for the men—for travel, beach, lounging. A Happy Coat, an item that we have seen frequently advertised in most of the better magazines. One size fits all, and it's a happy thing to wear indeed with its loose fit and kimono sleeves and wide quick-to-loop-over sash. In stripes at the Style Shop.

The newest wrinkle in decoration for bath rooms. Plush-covered waste baskets, seat and tissue box covers and a high fashioned hat for that spare roll—all gaily decorated with flowers. In decorator colors such as tangerine, royal blue, ruby, avocado. At Beverly's. And you should see the tiny Swedish figurines at Beverly's, little piglets and figures of men and women as well as cocks to hold your favorite candles—all cleverly painted in bright, bright colors to add a gay note to a buffet or end table or knick-nack shelves.

VISITING art groups were favorably impressed with the Warren Art League's charming center on Fifth Ave. and so great was the public response that many artists left their works for exhibit during the evening hours.

Saturday's festival was the first competitive exhibit sponsored by the Warren group to include other area artists. Under the chairmanship of Ruth Levinson, nearly every league member assisted in one capacity or other. Many visitors who came to the festival picnicked beneath the huge shade trees on the former Swick property.

MR. AND MRS. THEODORE O. PULS

Barrett and Puls Nuptials Read in Hollywood Church

Leota Mae Barrett, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hugh O. Barrett of 20 Barrett Rd., became the bride of Theodore O. Puls, son of Mr. and Mrs. Theodore E. Puls of Lindsay, Calif., at 7 p.m. on May 20 in Wylie Chapel of the First Presbyterian Church in Hollywood, Calif.

THE DOUBLE ring ceremony was performed by Dr. Raymond I. Lindquist. The white path to the altar was lined with lighted candles and ribbon bows on every pew. Candelabra, decorated with greens, and baskets of white phlox, gladioli and chrysanthemums formed the background for the candlelight ceremony.

Traditional wedding marches were played by the church organist, who also accompanied Mrs. Dudley Boyd, cousin of the bridegroom, as she sang "I Love Thee" and "The Lord's Prayer."

ESCORTED and given in marriage by her father, the bride was groomed in bride's blue re-embroidered Chantilly lace over silk peau de soie, fashioned with a fitted long-sleeved bodice and Sabrina neckline. A long straight skirt, slightly gathered at the front waistline, featured two panels of silk chiffon over poe de soie attached at the back waistline to form a chapel train.

A queen's crown of pearls and crystals held her fingertip veil of matching blue silk illusion and she carried an arm cascade of white roses centered with orchids. As one of her sentimentalities, the bride carried a lace handkerchief belonging to her 95-year-old grandmother, Mrs. Birdilla Barrett, North Warren.

MARIAN Reinberger, Los Angeles, attended the bride as maid of honor in a blue floor-length dress designed with a bell skirt, slightly bustled, with a sequined rose of the same material accenting the back waistline.

Her headpiece was a flat sequined bow of the same material fashioned into her hair style, and she carried an arm spray of pink roses.

JAMES G. Puls attended his brother as best man. Ushering were brothers of the principals, Richard and Raymond Barrett, Robert and David Puls.

Mrs. Barrett pinned a corsage of beige cymbidium orchids to her dress of pink and beige floral print, and added beige accessories. Mrs. Puls chose a light green embroidered linen dress, with white accents, and was favored with a corsage of white butterfly orchids.

A RECEPTION for 200 guests was given in the church parlors following the ceremony. Mrs. Margie Davis attended the guest book. The bridal table was decorated with white phlox and blue daisies and was centered with a four-tiered wedding cake which had touches of blue and was topped by a cluster of wedding bells.

For a wedding trip to Carmel, Monterey and San Francisco, the bride wore a light blue suit, white accessories and white orchid. The newlyweds are residing at 1025 Oakmont Dr., Porterville, Calif.

AMONG out of town guests attending the wedding were Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Ramsey, Ogden, Utah; and Mrs. Richard Barrett, Clarendon Rd. 1. Mrs. Ramsey is the former Kay Anthony, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wenzel Anthony, 11 Follett Run Rd., Warren.

They were all gowned in light blue silk organza with short bell skirts, accented with small jackets forming Watteau backs. Small crowns held their short blusher veils. The bridesmaids carried white parasols filled with white carnations, the honor attendants had identical parasols with blue and white carnations.

THE FLOWER girl was Barbara Angeloni, Butler, cousin of the bride. She wore a floor-length dress of white organza and carried a white lace basket filled with blue pompons. The ring bearer was Michael Fudoli, nephew of the bride. He carried the rings on a heart-shaped satin pillow.

The bell-shaped skirt was appliqued with matching lace and ended in a carriage-type train.

Her scalloped pearl-edged veil of silk illusion was held in place by a double tiered crown of Alencon lace and seed pearls. The bride's only jewelry was a single drop pearl, the bridegroom's gift. She carried a white Bible, belonging to her sister-in-law and topped with a white orchid, with trailing stephanotis and ivy.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Fudoli chose a pink chiffon sheath with matching accessories and a corsage of azalea pink carnations. The bridegroom's aunt, Mrs. Robert DeVare of Buffalo, N. Y., wore a taupe gown with matching accessories and a white corsage.

State Hospital's Farm Operation Exists for Twofold Reason

By BOB KOPF
T-M Staff Reporter

Farm operations at the Warren State Hospital are fulfilling their twofold purpose very successfully this year, according to Robert Phillips, hospital business manager. The farm program exists to provide industrial therapy for the institution's patients and to improve the economic well-being of the hospital by producing food for patient and staff consumption, he said.

THE RATE of discharged patients from the hospital indicates the success of the industrial therapy program. Over 90 per cent of all patients under age 60 are eventually discharged. This figure represents an enormous improvement over conditions in the not so distant past.

Hospital administrators insist that the industrial therapy program helps the patient by giving him a meaningful task and an honest sense of accomplishment. Phillips said that many patients take pride in their work because they can see the good that they are performing for the hospital.

On the economic side of the picture, the farm strives for self-sufficiency. By producing its own food and exchanging surplus commodities with similar state institutions, the hospital farm saves the taxpayers a considerable sum. According to Burdette Weiler, farm manager, all aspects of this year's farm operation are expected to be very productive. This productivity can be attributed to the excellent growing weather and the mechanization of farm equipment that has taken place in recent years.

MORE THAN 200 patients work in the over-all farm operation, which is subdivided into three parts. Although business affairs are handled by Robert Phillips, the whole field operation is supervised by Burdette Weiler. Weiler concentrates on running the farm production dealing with field crops—corn and hay, for example. The other two departments are handled by Pete Stilwell and Mert Reynolds. Stilwell manages the truck garden, which grows tomatoes, cabbage, strawberries, and other vegetables. Many hospital administrators consider Stilwell to be the most skillful and knowledgeable truck gardener in the state. Mert Reynolds, manager of the hospital dairy operation, has a mammoth job in supplying the hospital with all the milk it consumes.

Weiler's field crops supply forage for many of the farm animals, especially the dairy herd. After the farm's needs are taken care of, surpluses are sent to neighboring institutions. Rather than selling produce to private individuals or companies, the State Hospital exchanges surpluses with other mental institutions, which are under the agency of the Department of Public Welfare, Weiler explained.

THE HOSPITAL dairy barns, under the direction of Mert Reynolds, are running at full capacity. Reynolds said that about 35 patients, aided by eight employees, milk the hospital's 150 cows on a rotation basis—one milking takes place at 8 a.m., the other at 8 p.m. The dairy herd produces approximately 560 gallons of milk every two days, he commented. Local dairies pasteurize the milk, and then they return it to the hospital in either bottles or cans. The Warren County Dairy and Walker's Dairy bid every year for the pasteurizing job.

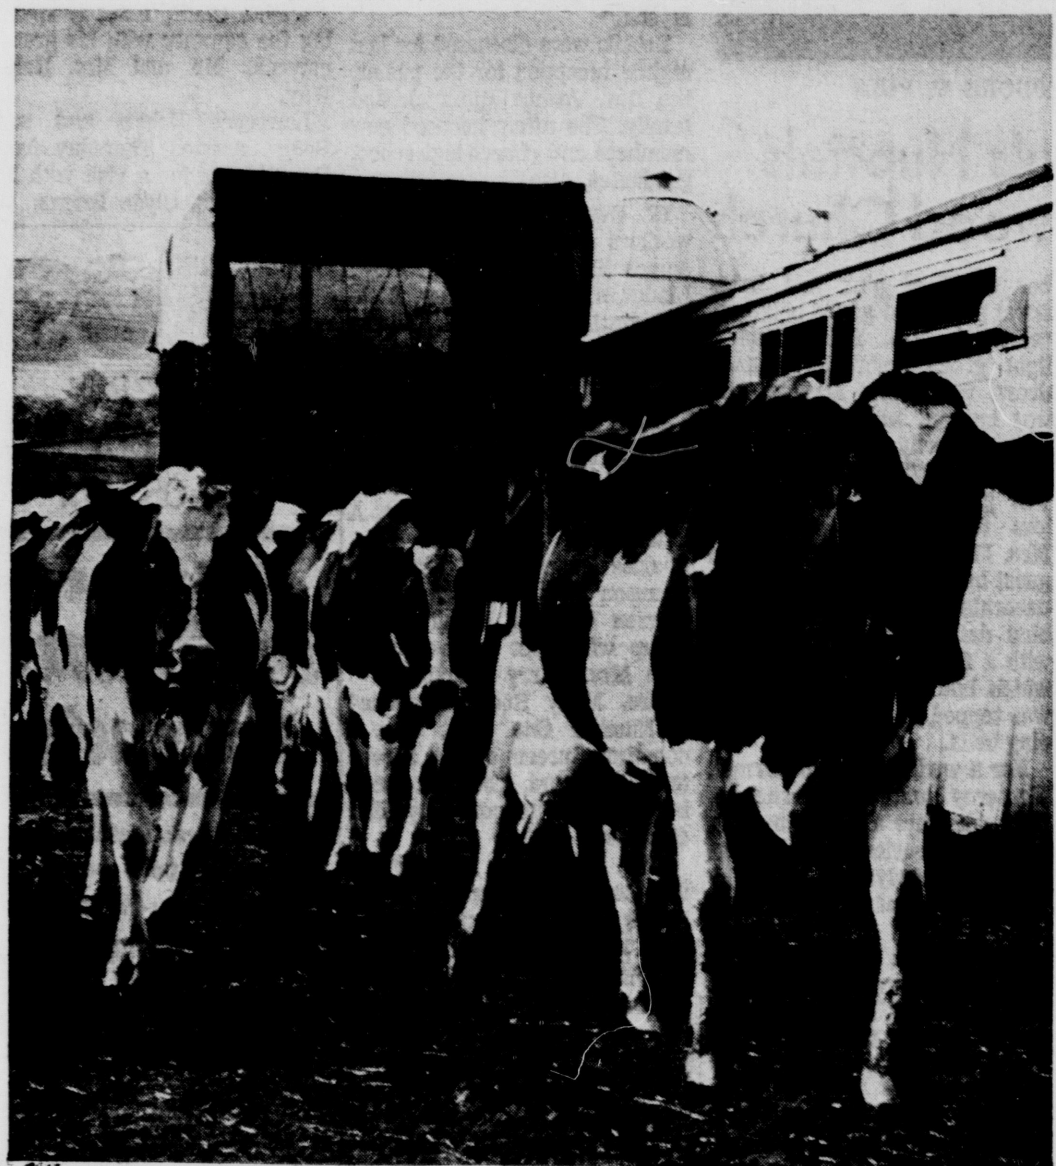

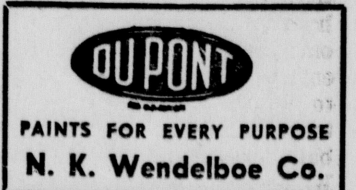

Weather is the vital variable in determining the success of Pete Stilwell's truck garden activity. In case of a dry season, only rain can save the vegetables, for the hospital has neither a sprinkling system nor many irrigation ditches. He also has to risk the destruction of infant crops in the spring, since the farm cannot use smudge pots to ward off frost because of complaints about air pollution. On the positive side, Stilwell uses commercial fertilizers and rye grass as soil nutrients, as well as frequent insect sprayings.

ALTHOUGH tomatoes and cabbage are his biggest crops, Stilwell is currently harvesting strawberries, of which he expects about 1,000 crates at the end of the short season. During the growing season the truck garden employs over 100 patients, but their jobs do not end in the winter, for many are employed in storing operations then, Stilwell said.

Usually the patient farmers keep busy with the major crops, but one capitalistic patient decided to enlarge the hospital —See 'State,' Pg. 9

SUPPLIES HOSPITAL MILK — The State Hospital's 150 dairy cows, under the care of dairyman Mert Reynolds, supplies all of the milk consumed there by staff and patients. Local dairy companies pasteurize and bottle the institution's milk. The dairy represents just one aspect of the hospital's farm operation, which strives for self-sufficiency.

GETS FIELD IN SHAPE — Bill Peterson, a resident of Kane, finishes the cultivation of the Warren State Hospital bean patch for Pete Stilwell, truck gardener at the local institution. Since the farm has become more mechanized in recent years, and patients cannot work with machinery, the hospital has hired more non-patient employees like Peterson.

Audit Is Set On State's Books

HARRISBURG (AP) — The Democratic-controlled auditor general's department is to have its books audited by a private accounting firm from Philadelphia.

The Republican Scranton administration announced Monday it has hired the firm of Adler, Faunce and Leonard to conduct the audit at a fee not to exceed $22,500.

The work is to be completed by no later than Nov. 30, according to John W. Ingram, secretary of administration who added that state law requires an annual audit of the department.

Ingram also noted that there is no record that an independent audit of the department had been done before, either by a state or private agency.

State Hospital's Farm Has Twofold Purpose

farming operations last summer. While working at the Farm Colony, north of the administration buildings, he discovered several golf balls lying in the tomato patch, which borders on the Conewango Valley Country Club golf course. It seems that those unfortunate golfers with a hook on No. 7 drove their balls onto the Farm Colony field. This enterprising individual began to harvest golf balls as well as tomatoes, and he found that golf balls brought a better price. Within a few weeks the patient, a firm believer in the spirit of capitalism, sold his harvest for a tidy profit.

WEILER, Stilwell and Reynolds, who have 57 years of experience among them at the hospital farm, noted several changes that have occurred during the past two decades. In the past, the farm employed more patients, but it has gradually become more mechanized, and patients are used in other capacities. Since no patient is allowed to operate farm machinery, the automation has meant that more non-patient employees are used in the fields. "A job that formerly used 60 men, now uses four," Stilwell commented.

In the past, according to hospital officials, fights among patients interrupted the farm work, but more harmonious working conditions prevail now, due to improved medications and treatments. Modern drugs have made it possible to tear down the fences that formerly surrounded the fields that patients used to work in.

WEILER NOTED that the farm no longer raises poultry and hogs, because these operations were "just not economical." And Reynolds pointed out that, due to medical and economic reasons, patients no longer eat across the Conewango Creek at Cranbrook, where his dairy operation is located.

Although hospital officials agree that the farm has become more efficient over the years, several problems must be faced in the future. Robert Phillips, business manager, pointed out that expansion programs at the hospital limits the acreage that can be used for farming. New buildings mean that "we must find new ways to grow crops more efficiently on a smaller tract of land," he said. He added that the hospital could purchase new farm land, but it would have to be adjacent to the existing set-up because of the difficulties involved in patient transportation.

PATIENT DISCHARGES have increased rapidly during the last decade, and while this represents a positive step in patient therapy, Phillips said that this has created some chaos in farming at the hospital. The turnover means that new patients do not have time to become skilled in their particular job, he explained. And patients are transferred between jobs more often, because this reassignment has become an integral part in the medical treatment of the patient. Efficient job retraining is the only solution to this problem, Phillips commented.

Hospital officials emphasized that all patients work under the auspices of trained attendants, and no patient has a job that has not been assigned by a hospital psychiatrist. The farm administrators have no authority over any of the 200 patients working on the agricultural program. This means that many patients do not produce at the capacity of regular farm employees, but they must be treated as patients, not laborers, he said. "The farm is here to benefit only the patients," Phillips concluded.

FORGETFUL DAY

LEOTI, Kan. (AP) — Murle M. Hayden used a pair of pliers and a piece of wire to fish the ignition keys out of his closed and locked car.

In the process the pliers and wire were put on a car fender and forgotten. Hayden stopped for gasoline 160 miles away and a service station attendant pointed out that the pliers and wire were riding undisturbed where Hayden had left them — on the fender.

NO MORE GUESSING

ANSONIA, Ohio (AP)—Thanks to a newly wired fire map, Ansonia's 24-man volunteer fire department has become more efficient.

The map, which shows 600 properties in the department's bailiwick, required 4,800 feet of wire and 300 bulbs.

When a fire is reported, the bulb nearest the scene is switched on. Fire Chief Gerald Oswald said before the map was installed, "whoever got to the station first took the truck and the rest guessed where the fire was."

Music Publisher Sends Candy to Patients at WSH

Delivery of 7,560 peppermint patties to Warren State Hospital's patients last week represented another in a long series of such gifts from a New York man with an unusual hobby.

JERRY Vogel, well-known music publisher, has been sending gifts of candy to patients in hospitals throughout the nation for forty years. "Giving Away Candy" is the title of his unique project, and he donates each gift shipment in honor of one of his good friends.

Last week's gift to the patients of W. S. H. was sent in honor of Edward Weadick, an executive in the "Fanny Farmer Candy Shops." According to Vogel, "His (Mr. Weadick) deep-rooted interest and generous co-operation in the Jerry Vogel Foundation have been a tremendous help to me in spreading cheer throughout the year nationwide."

Superintendent Dr. Robert H. Israel, the staff and patients of Warren State Hospital expressed their sincere gratitude to Vogel for this much-appreciated gift

Blacksmith, Still Active at 84, Gets Mail From Politicians and Celebrities

ROSETO, Pa. (AP) — Peter Ronca, the blacksmith, has been getting a lot of mail in recent months from people such as Sen. Hugh Scott, R-Pa., Gov. Scranton, former vice president Richard Nixon, and many more.

Ronca celebrated his 84th birthday Monday still an active blacksmith and toolmaker after 70 years of work at the trade. He works some days up to 14 hours, likes to ride a bicycle just for fun, can still climb an occasional tree, or chop one down, as he did on his previous birthday.

His powerful old age is the envy of many a man years his junior and Ronca's fan mail an Associated Press article described him and his fellow-citizens of the small, but healthy town of Roseto, Pa.

For in Roseto, far from being unique, Ronca is closer to being typical. During the past two years, medical teams have examined the residents, mostly of Italian origin, to find out how they enjoy such good health for such long lives.

They found in Roseto, the death rate from heart disease was only about one-third of the national average rate. The town went seven years, from 1956 to 1963, without a single heart death.

Although many doctors suspect that heart disease is connected with overweight, the townspeople turn out to be among the biggest eaters in the country.

Ronca, for instance, packs in meat two or three times a day, spaghetti, and lots of vegetables. He likes beer and wine, a good pipe, and a quid of chewing tobacco.

His working day starts at 4 a. m. when he heads for nearby slate quarries with his smithy gear.

"Sometimes I'm there all day and then sometimes I'm there only 'til noon," he says. "When I work half a day at the quarry I come home and eat and then

Lodge Fails To See How Viet Nam Could Be Issue

WASHINGTON (AP) — Henry Cabot Lodge, expanding on his view that he doesn't see how U.S. policy in the Viet Nam war could become a campaign issue, says "I don't see how it gets votes — how you can make it a good issue."

He adds: "If you have a disaster in foreign relations then that becomes an issue whether the politicians make it one or not. Happily I see no prospect of any disaster."

Lodge, who resigned after 10 months as ambassador to South Viet Nam, returned Monday to help Pennsylvania Gov. William W. Scranton in his campaign for the Republican presidential nomination.

President Johnson met with the retiring ambassador at the White House, then went before newsmen with Lodge at his side to express public thanks for his services in Saigon.

In replying to questions submitted to him by Wes Gallagher, general manager of The Associated Press, Lodge said "things in Viet Nam started to go better and I felt it was my duty to be here" to help Scranton.

The questions had been asked of Lodge in Saigon, but he said he preferred to defer his replies until his resignation became effective Monday.

The questions and Lodge's replies included:

Q. Governor Scranton disagrees with you that the war in South Viet Nam should not be an issue in the campaign. Now that you are supporting him, how do you expect to resolve this difference?

A. I have not said it should not be an issue. I have said I don't see how it could be. I don't see how it gets votes — how you can make it a good issue.

If you have a disaster in foreign relations, then that becomes an issue whether the politicians make it one or not. Happily, I see no prospect of any disaster.

Q. How do you propose to overcome Senator Goldwater's long lead for the nomination? And why did you wait so long to come home to enter the campaign?

A. That's two questions. With respect to the first one, I'm not sure he has such a long lead. I remember when The AP gave Senator Taft a long lead over General Eisenhower in 1952. You can't take the delegate pledges at face value.

(The current AP survey of GOP convention delegates lists 693 first ballot votes for Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona — 38 more than the 655 needed for nomination if they stick with him. Of these, 118 are from primary election commitments, 257 from delegates instructed by state or district GOP conventions, 62 personally pledged and 256 who favor him. The survey shows 138 for Scranton, none of them bound to him.)

The second question, why did I wait, is really the question, what made me come home early? I was not waiting, nor was I intending to come home this early. But I got messages from friends, people I esteemed, saying that if I came early it might make a difference in Governor Scranton's campaign. Then things in Viet Nam started to go better and I felt my duty was to be here.

Q. Did the messages come from Governor Scranton and friends of his?

A. No, they came from persons interested in me who wanted to see me do the right thing in this campaign.

Q. There has been much speculation in the United States about the possibility of striking into North Viet Nam and possibly China. Do you favor such strategy?

A. The answer to that question gets into classified information.

Fire Damages Chemical Firm

BRADFORD, Pa. (AP)—The Susquehanna Chemical Corp. plant in nearby Custer City was extensively damaged Monday night by a charcoal-fed fire.

There were no injuries in the blaze which destroyed a building, several railroad box cars, slicing, loading and bagging equipment and hundreds of tons of charcoal.

About 150 firemen from four companies battled the blaze for about six hours. They were summoned to the plant by workers who noticed smoke in a charcoal loading area. The charcoal is produced for home barbecue pits.

The cause of the fire was not determined immediately. No damage estimate was available. Susquehanna employs 30 workers at the plant.

MYSTERY PICTURE — This photo, from the collection of the late Harry Grant, has puzzled the experts so far. Believed to have been taken during a July 4 parade in Warren shortly after World War I, no one has been able to identify the unit to which the riders belong. The fact that the riders carry nightsticks would seem to indicate that they're police instead of cavalry. One expert suggested that the picture is of a Canadian unit. However, the date, the actual location — believed to be Warren — and the outfit represented remain a mystery.

LBJ Okays New Nuclear Pact With All Members of NATO

By KARL R. BAUMAN
WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson notified Congress today that he has approved a new agreement to extend the types of atomic information the United States may give to the North Atlantic Treaty Organization and its member nations. The new agreement supersedes an earlier one, under which NATO and its members have been receiving some atomic information for the past several years.

In notifying Congress of the new agreement, Johnson said the expanded area of information is needed to make effective use of nuclear delivery systems being provided by this country under bilateral procedures and agreements that followed creation of NATO atomic stockpiles in 1957.

Also, Johnson said, the new agreement will permit NATO member countries to share in information that this country has been exchanging only with the NATO organization itself, under a 1955 agreement.

He said the new agreement represents a logical and useful step in our continuing and varied efforts to ensure wider allied participation in NATO nuclear defenses.

Furthermore, Johnson said, "such wider participation is necessary on both military and political grounds. It is needed to enhance the effectiveness of NATO defenses. On political grounds, it is needed to reinforce NATO cohesion in meeting our allies' legitimate desire to make a constructive contribution to nuclear defense."

Under the Atomic Energy Act the Joint House-Senate Atomic Energy Committee must have 30 days' notice before the agreement can go into effect.

Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara and Glenn T. Seaborg, chairman of the Atomic Energy Commission, had recommended that the President approve the broadening agreement.

In a memorandum to Johnson, they stressed that the new agreement makes clear that there will be no transfer of atomic weapons or atomic weapons systems involving restricted data.

Insurance Firm Sets Up Special Office To Handle Blast Claims

WAYNE, N. J. (AP) — The American Cyanamid Co. says its insurer has set up a special field office near the scene of a trailer truck explosion that killed six persons at Marshalls Creek, Pa., last Friday, and is conducting an investigation into "the extent of liability or if liability exists."

A spokesman for Cyanamid said the field office has been placed in the Penn Stroud Hotel in Stroudsburg, Pa., about 10 miles from the scene of the explosion.

The truck and its cargo of nitro carbo nitrate and dynamite belonged to Cyanamid.

The office was set up at the request of Cyanamid, the spokesman said, and would expedite claims by any injured parties.

"We are presently at a loss to explain the cause of the explosion," he said.

He said Cyanamid officials had questioned the truck driver, Albert Koda, 51, of Port Carbon, Pa., Friday and Sunday, but declined to make any statement on the interviews.

The trailer caught fire and exploded shortly before dawn, killing six persons, including three volunteer firemen, and injuring 10 others.

The 21-year old soldier, a 1960 High School graduate, completed basic training at Fort Gordon.

PRR Checking Complaints Of Poor Road Crossings

ERIE—Somebody's confused—the Pennsylvania Railroad has advised county commissioners that it is investigating the complaint recently forwarded to it by commissioners, concerning a need for improvements or repairs to crossings at Dutchtown, Jones and Smiley roads in Le-Boeuf Twp.

The complaint concerns high brush and possibly "poor" grades of roadbeds, which hinder visibility for motorists.

The confusion arises because the Erie-Lackawanna Railroad is the only railroad operating tracks through that vicinity.

However, this is some improvement, because when the matter was first brought to commissioners two weeks ago, they were told the problem crossings were in Waterford Twp.

Center Enlarged

OLEAN, N. Y.—Construction of a $100,000 addition to the Olean Medical Center got under way yesterday on the site of the former Heenan home which was razed last year.

The medical center houses offices of a dozen doctors, along with various laboratories used by the staff at the center.

Dock Presented

ERIE—The newly constructed public dock was formally presented to the city yesterday afternoon at rededication ceremonies held simultaneously with the arrival of the LST USS De-Soto County.

Work on the dock involved a $54,220 general contract. The lower surface of the dock was resurfaced and railings were placed on the upper deck.

Only 7 Respond

TITUSVILLE—Only seven out of 29 persons who were issued invitations to attend the county's new driver improvement school have responded to the notices mailed to them.

The notices were mailed to persons facing hearings on traffic violations.

The only charge to those enrolled in the school will be $1 for textbooks.

YM Plans Drive

CORRY—The Corry YMCA board of directors will launch shortly a special campaign aimed at financing a $13,000 physical fitness installation.

Included in this section which will be built into the existing basement will be a workout room, massage room, sauna-type steam bath, sun room and lounge area as well as shower and toilet facilities.

TODAY WASHINGTON

—By The Associated Press—

WASHINGTON (AP)—In the news from Washington:

WASHINGTON (AP)—After two busy months of traveling and speechmaking, President Johnson is expected to spend most of July at the White House.

There are no travel plans on his announced schedule for the month, and aides said only two or three out-of-town engagements are being discussed. The President may make a brief trip to his Texas ranch for the July 4 weekend.

One factor that may be influencing the President's travel plans is the Republican National Convention, which opens in San Francisco July 13 and will likely dominate the news for at least one week. Associates say it is only a coincidence that Johnson has no speaking dates during this period.

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Johnson's signature has put the temporary national debt limit at $324 billion—until a year from today.

If Johnson had not signed the bill Monday, the limit would have dropped automatically to the old temporary limit of $309 billion today and to its permanent limit of $285 billion at midnight tonight.

The actual federal debt now stands at $312 billion.

WASHINGTON (AP)—Total federal employment dropped 3,555 in May compared with April, a Senate-House committee reported today.

The total number of civilian employees was listed as 2,476,791 in May by the Committee on Reduction of Nonessential Federal Expenditures. The biggest cuts were in the civilian pay roll of the Defense Department.

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Karl Mundt, R-S.D., said today he is preparing new legislation to prevent Communists from obtaining passports.

He deplored a recent Supreme Court decision striking down a provision of the 1950 Internal Security Act banning the issuance of passports to members of organizations required to register as Communist groups. Mundt gave no details of the new legislation he plans to introduce.

U.S. Chamber Hits Appalachia Plan; Submits Own Remedy Idea

WASHINGTON (AP)—The U. S. Chamber of Commerce attacked today the Johnson administration's bill to aid Appalachia and submitted eight proposals of its own to the Senate Public Works Subcommittee.

In a statement to subcommittee chairman Jennings Randolph, D-W.Va., the chamber said it did not feel that the present legislation was the best way to reduce poverty in the 10-state Appalachia region. Its recommendations stressed aid to states and use of existing programs.

The chamber submitted these short-range proposals:

1. "Rapid completion of the Appalachian segments of the national highway system already authorized instead of a new highway system designed especially for the Appalachian region as provided for in the bill.

2. "Governmental and industrial actions to induce expansion of coal exports."

3. "Improve pasture and soil erosion correctional practices by expanded plant research through existing facilities and the agricultural conservation payments program."

4. "Speed up development of private commercial forests through existing programs of federal-state-private owner co-operation and implement Appalachian national forest management programs."

5. "Accelerate federal-state-private cooperation in planning for water conservation on upstream watersheds."

The chamber made these long-range proposals:

1. "Establish a regional organization, such as an Interstate Compact, to provide joint state action" on antipoverty programs in the region.

2. "Apply to the specific problems of Appalachia existing federal programs provided for in the 1963 Vocational Education Act, the 1963 Higher Education Facilities Act, the Community Work Relief and Training Program and the 1962 Manpower Development and Training Act."

3. Provide aid "chiefly through grants to states, in the planning, acquisition of land and development of recreational facilities."

Two juveniles in the Russell area, apprehended before in a series of burglaries, are in custody again for a repeat performance.

The Warren County Sheriff's Dept. said today that the juveniles, one age 16 and one 18, are charged with the theft of approximately $2.50 from the home of a Russell resident.

The pair, with two others, were referred to the juvenile authorities following their arrest a few weeks ago for burglarizing several camps and homes in and around Russell.

The current burglary occurred Sunday afternoon, police said.

Typhoon Winnie Paralyzes Manila; 7 Known Drowned

MANILA, Philippines (AP)—Typhoon Winnie paralyzed this city of two million people today. At least seven persons were reported drowned. Scores more were injured.

The storm's winds of up to 95 miles an hour tore through populous central Luzon Island before dawn, demolished thousands of shanty homes and left Manila without power, light, newspapers and public transportation.

Unofficial reports said seven persons drowned in swirling flood waters in the Manila area. The communications blackout delayed word of casualties and damage in the provinces.

Rains continued but winds had subsided by late Tuesday morning as Winnie moved over the South China Sea toward the China mainland.

The Weather Bureau said the eye of the storm passed directly over Manila. The winds tore off roofing, knocked down stone and brick walls and uprooted huge trees.

Hundreds of cars and buses were stalled in flooded streets. Telephone poles were knocked down and news services blacked out. Radio stations were silenced when their transmitting towers were blown down.

Manila International Airport's control tower was unusable, grounding all international and domestic flights.

The typhoon passed 35 miles southwest of the big U.S. Clark Air Force Base north of Manila, but no damage was reported there. A spokesman said aircraft were placed in emergency shelters.

EXPENSIVE OVERSIGHT

DAYTON, Ohio (AP)—Some 50,000 pieces of city income tax literature were sent back to the printer after a small but potentially costly oversight was noted.

The material contained no identification of the sponsoring organization or the name of any official as required by Ohio law. The city income tax committee would have been liable to a fine of $300 to $2,000 had the literature been distributed.

SHADES OF KEYSTONE COPS

WICHITA, Kan. (AP)—Three detectives were returning a prisoner to Wichita from Kansas City when their car broke down.

The officers said several motorists were startled to see the policemen pushing the car while the manacled prisoner sat in the driver's seat steering.

The Warren Times-Mirror has complete coverage of all the news.

HOAGY CARMICHAEL tells about a hunting trip he made with an egomaniac who wouldn't admit that a downpour of rain could have the slightest effect on his marksmanship. Sloshing homeward in a miniature flood, the intrepid hunter hears the whir of a bird's wings overhead, whips his gun out of the case, took hasty aim, and fired.

The bird flew on undisturbed toward the murky horizon. The hunter watched in dazed silence for a moment, then dashed his gun to the ground, and cried out, "Fly on, you blankety-blank fool bird! Fly on with your gol-durned heart shot out!"

Old-timers delight in reminding younger conferees in the Broadway sector that Florenz Ziegfeld, patron saint of the Ziegfeld Follies, was the most infallible picker of feminine glamour girls in all the world. Yet it is an irrefutable fact that when Ziegfeld was in Hollywood selecting a chorus for the motion picture version of "Whoopie," he turned down as "not attractive enough" three 17-year-old girls in one morning who returned later to haunt him: Paulette Goddard, Betty Grable, and Lucille Ball!

Kennesaw Mountain Engagement Fought Again

Local Man Takes Part in Re-enactment of Battle

CIVIL WAR 'VETERAN' — Railroad worker Jim Miller of Grafton, W. Va., is a real "Civil War" veteran. He has appeared in 27 battle re-enactments during the centennial celebration, and Kennesaw Mountain was the last to date. His photo appeared in Newsweek during the Gettysburg re-enactment last year.

The historic slopes of Georgia's Kennesaw Mountain echoed to the whoop of charging rebels, the thunder of cavalry horses and the deep-chested boom of field pieces again over the weekend—and a Warren man was in the thick of it.

HOWARD GROTZINGER, owner of Warren Drug Store, who already has participated in four other Civil War battle re-enactments, was on hand, but this time he appeared as a Rebel.

Johnny Reb Grotzinger was attached to the staff of Gen. Kirkpatrick of the Virginia Cavalry, a part of JEB Stuart's cavalry corps. He had the rank of captain, but was acting as correspondent carrying a press card from The Warren Times-Mirror.

SOME 2,000 rebels and Yankees—as compared with about 100 times that number actually engaged at Kennesaw Mountain in 1864—clashed on the hallowed ground around the slopes of the hill. The battle itself, in 1864, marked the opening of Gen. William Tecumseh Sherman's campaign for Atlanta, one of the most remarkable feats of generalship in American military history. Sherman, red-bearded, given to curing headaches with whiskey instead of Seditz powders, faced Gen. Joseph E. Johnston, considered the South's best field general after Robert E. Lee. On May 7, 1864, Sherman moved his 100,000 federal troops—the victors of Vicksburg and Lookout Mountain—against Gen. Johnston's 50,000 to 75,000

Confederates. They collided at Kennesaw Mountain on June 27.

What Sherman was to do during the long, hot summer of 1864 was to sidestep around Johnston, pushing him back along the railway line to the outskirts of Atlanta itself. The climax came with the siege of Atlanta—a series of battles—and its evacuation. It was from Atlanta that Sherman began his famous "march to the sea."

AT KENNESAW Mountain, Sherman, in independent command after Grant had been elevated to supreme command of all the Union armies earlier in the spring, tested Johnston's dispositions carefully. Though the Rebels had fled in disorder from Lookout Mountain, taking their general, Braxton Bragg, with them, they were still full of fight. Besides Sherman was well aware that Johnston was a dangerous man who knew the tricks.

The tactics followed by Capt. Grotzinger and his associates last weekend follow pretty much the same plans as Sherman and Johnston followed a century ago. The 2,000 troops represented some 65 authentic Union and Confederate units made up of Civil War buffs from all parts of the United States (there was one Texas infantry unit in line made up of "Texans" from Detroit.)

AS A HANDBOOK, the soldiers were using Hardee's Tactics, a volume compiled by Gen. William Hardee and used by both sides in the Civil War as the chief field manual.

Gen. John K. Williams, of the Georgia Militia, said the mock battle Saturday was the most ambitious re-enactment to date in the centennial observance of the Civil War in the South. Every phase of the battle was carefully planned to re-create the events of June 27, 1864.

LOCAL RAIN on Thursday and Friday of last week hampered troops in setting up camp.

Grotzinger said his unit led a charge against the Union infantry at one point and later served as guard for an authentic recreation of a wagon supply train. The Regiment had its own artillery unit, Grotzinger said. "It was very exciting," he said. "And a tremendous crowd was on the hillside watching."

AT ONE point in the real battle, flaming fragments of wooden powder bags, discharged by the guns, set fire to the dry grass of the battle field. A truce was called and the Federal forces removed their wounded. During the weekend battle, Grotzinger said, the incident was recreated with smoke bombs.

In the principal part of the battle, some 30 pieces of artillery were in action.

THE BATTLE itself is of interest to Warren people, because a Warren unit, the 11th Pennsylvania Volunteer Infantry regiment, took part in the original engagement, led by Lt. Col. George A. Cobham. Col. Cobham was killed a month later at the Battle of Peach Tree Creek, a prelude to the siege of Atlanta.

Grotzinger's interest in the Civil War re-enactments has led him into several other engagements including battles at Hanover Court House, Gettysburg, Wrightsville and Lison, Ohio. In the latter affair, he was part of the re-enactment of the capture of Col. John Morgan, the Rebel raider.

Judd To Be July 4th Chautauqua Speaker

CHAUTAUQUA — Walter H. Judd, former Minnesota Congressman, physician and missionary, will speak in the Chautauqua Amphitheater at 2 p.m., July 4th, during the annual Independence Day ceremonies.

HIS TOPIC will be "Needed—An American Revolution." Also taking part in the program will be the Lincoln Junior High School Band, Jamestown, N. Y., with Frank Smeragliuolo, director.

Some 60 million Americans remember Dr. Judd's stirring keynote address at the Republican National Convention in Chicago in 1960. Twenty universities and colleges have conferred on him honorary doctorate degrees. In a Congressional poll in 1962, he was voted by his colleagues in the House one of its five most influential members, the only one so named from the minority party.

AMONG THE many honors and awards given to Dr. Judd are the American Medical Association's Distinguished Service Award, 1961; CARE-MEDICO

Humanitarian Award, 1962; and United States Chamber of Commerce Great Living American Award, 1963.

Born in Nebraska, Dr. Judd first worked on a farm, then worked his way through the University of Nebraska and its medical school. He served as a Lieutenant in the U. S. Army in World War I and in 1925 went as a medical missionary to bandit and malaria-infested South China.

COMING HOME in 1938, Judd spoke to 1400 audiences in 46 states about his conviction that we must stop building up the Japanese war machine. After Pearl Harbor, he was urged to become a candidate for Congress — he was elected in 1942 and served for twenty years in the House of Representatives.

During his 10 terms in Congress, Dr. Judd became a nationally recognized authority on United States foreign policy and played an important role in establishing our relief, recovery, re-armament and economic development programs abroad.

Swedish Singers Are Set For Chautauqua Concert

CHAUTAUQUA — The American Union of Swedish Singers, which is holding its eastern division convention in Jamestown, N.Y., will provide an amphitheater concert at Chautauqua, Friday, July 3, at 8:30 p.m.

Members of thirteen male choruses from the states of Massachusetts, Connecticut, Rhode Island, and New York will form a mighty choir of some 200 voices under the direction of Seth Hokanson, director-in-chief, from Springfield, Mass.

Edward T. Nyborg is assistant conductor of the chorus with Marjorie Johnson and Dean Reddick, accompanists, and Gustav Kvalden, baritone, and Lars Sundman, tenor, as soloists.

The purpose of the American Union of Swedish Singers is to cultivate Swedish and American songs in general, Swedish Male Chorus compositions and singing in particular.

Organized in 1892 in Chicago, the Union holds biennial festivals in the eastern and western divisions and a quadrennial convention held jointly. The chorus appeared at Chautauqua in 1901 when the convention was held in Jamestown.

Seth Hokanson, the director, came to America from Sweden in 1929 and settled in Springfield. In 1932 he became director of the local Swedish male chorus, Orpheus Drangar, a post he has held uninterrupted since that year.

In 1937 he studied directing under Prof. Carl E. Dramstad from the Royal Academy of Music who was sent to this country under the auspices of King Gustav V to teach chorus directing to members of the American Union of Swedish Singers.

In 1959 Hokanson was assistant director of the chorus that represented the American Union at the 50th jubilee of the United Swedish Singers, which was held in Stockholm.

Heart Assn. Gives Grant For Research

A. B. Chiaramonte, president of the Warren County Heart Association, announced Saturday an award of $3,554,915 to scientists for research studies in the field of heart and blood vessel diseases.

"Contributions by the people of Warren County made the grant possible," Chiaramonte said.

The newly announced awards are part of a $10,000,000 research effort being underwritten by the American Heart Association and its affiliates for the year 1964-65.

Of the share of Heart Fund contributions sent to the American Heart Association by the Warren County Heart Association, more than 50 per cent is set aside for research.

Rights Demonstrators To Picket Scranton in Chicago

CHICAGO (AP)—Civil rights leaders from Chester, Pa., and Chicago have mapped plans to picket Pennsylvania Gov. William W. Scranton during his visit here today.

Scranton is appearing before the Illinois delegates to the Republican National Convention.

Stanley Branche, chairman of the Chester Committee for Freedom Now, which staged a series of local school integration demonstrations earlier this year, took part Sunday night in a march and rally by a newly-activated Chicago civil rights group known as ACT.

At the U. S. Courthouse, winding up the demonstration Monday morning, Branche told demonstrators Scranton "is talking about (Arizona Sen. Barry) Goldwater's stand in Mississippi when he ought to be concerned with police brutality in his own state."

Branche's group has been urging a state investigation into what they term police brutality during demonstrations in Chester.

Branche met Monday with Laurence Landry, chairman of Chicago's ACT.

Scranton was to meet the state delegates at a motel near O'Hare Airport but he also announced plans for two trips downtown.

After Monday's meeting, Landry said, "We'll be there if he (Scranton) is."

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market retreated slightly from its record high level early this afternoon.

Trading was moderate as prices wavered narrowly.

Interest continued high in American Telephone's new split stock. It opened unchanged on a block of 20,000 shares and then lost half a point.

Brokers were hoping AT&T would reach a new high. They said this would give the market a psychological boost.

General Motors, which began labor contract negotiations with the gaining about half a point. U.S. Steel picked up around a half point in an otherwise weak group.

The Associated Press 60-stock average at noon had dropped .3 to 311.4 with industrials off .3, rails off .1 and utilities off .5.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials at noon was off .08 to 829.6.

Tobacco issues, after having been mixed in early trading, turned downward in the wake of a report that the smoking public was reducing consumption of cigarettes.

Polaroid advanced 2 points and was one of the few issues in the list to post a gain of better than a point.

RCA and Raytheon added about half a point while Zenith was down in the same range.

DOG DONATED TO CHARITY

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The Franklin County Cancer Society reported that one volunteer fund collector returned to headquarters with the money she had collected — and a dog.

She said the man of one of the families she called on had offered the animal. Several hours later, officials said, a woman called and offered a cash gift if she could have her dog back. The trade was made.

As SAM DAWSON Sees It

(Business News Analysis)

NEW YORK (AP) — More money in the hands of more people—even if on a quick in-and-out trip—is how the majority now sees the rest of this year.

Consumers are counting on it—witness their present spending and borrowing rates and their confident plans for the near future, all based on belief there will be more jobs, higher incomes, less tax erosion, more of a helping hand from government in now backward sectors of the economy.

Business is counting on it—witness its rush of new orders, rising production schedules, larger payrolls, plans for expanding activities and plants.

Government is counting on it—witness its revised estimates of more revenues from lower rates on larger corporate earnings and personal incomes.

Even the economists, often a dour lot, are counting on it—citing the momentum of an upswing that so far has revised the old laws of economic gravity, and the absence of excesses and weaknesses that have tolled the knee in past cycles.

Records set in the first half of the year have fed this confidence. Still rising at midyear are industrial output, personal incomes, profits, dividends, stock prices, retail sales, employment.

Predictions for the fall are for continued economic growth. Almost the only reservations concern its rate. Will business activity expand at the fast pace of the first half of the year or at a slightly more sedate one?

Auto makers, having set a first half record, now predict output and sales will top the previous high of 1953.

The total national output of goods and services, estimated to have been at an annual rate of $620 billion in the second quarter, is believed by some to be moving toward a $645-billion pace in the fourth quarter, against $600.1 billion at the end of 1963.

All of this has been done without inflation. So the horizon looks more than usually bright for the rest of the year. But this doesn't mean there aren't some clouds. There always are.

At midyear the clouds are: 1. The growing numbers of untrained youths and of older workers with skills made obsolete by automation who don't fit into tomorrow's economy as projected today;

2. The possibility, however faint just now, that business and consumers will toss aside caution and go on a spree of expansion and spending that could trigger a boom—and then a bust;

3. Stirrings in industrial prices that might widen into general increases if the moderating influence of surpluses of production capacity and available labor should be used up;

4. Labor negotiations just ahead that might raise production costs enough to start another whirl on the wage-price spiral.

Report on Health Hazard Causes 16 Billion Cigarette Cutback

By OVID A. MARTIN

WASHINGTON (AP) — Americans cut down on their smoking by about 16 billion cigarettes since a government report linked health hazards to smoking, the Agriculture Department reported today.

The cut-back was 6.5 per cent below the first six months of last year.

The department said more cigarettes are now being smoked in the United States than in the period just after the report was released last Jan. 11, but probably not as many as before the report.

Meanwhile, cigars, pipes and roll-your-own cigarettes are becoming more popular. Sales of regular and small cigars are up about 12 per cent.

The department estimated cigarette consumption for the year ending June 30 at 507 billion—a drop of 2 per cent from the previous year.

'Data available thus far indicate that consumption dropped sharply following release of the (Jan. 11) report—probably 15 to 20 per cent. The severity of this decline has not persisted, but consumption has not recovered to the pre-report level. Whether or not cigarette use will resume the fairly strong upward trend that characterized the period 1955 through 1963 cannot be foreseen,' the report said.

Production of smoking tobacco for pipes and roll-your-own cigarettes increased about one-sixth. Production of chewing tobacco increased slightly.

Five Toes Lost, Worker Given $90,000 Award

PITTSBURGH (AP)—David T. Darney, 51, of Pittsburgh, who asserted he lost five toes after receiving an electrical shock in August, 1961, has won a $90,000 award.

An Allegheny County jury returned the award Monday against the R. J. Dickey Co. of Pittsburgh and the Hiram Swank's Sons brick plant in nearby Large.

Darney, who was a Dickey employee said he was helping to guide steel at the Swank plant when the crane boom touched a high tension wire.

12 Missing As Planes Ram in Air

HAMILTON, Bermuda (AP)—U.S. boats and planes were searching off Bermuda's south coast today for 12 American airmen missing after the collision of two Air Force planes during a space training mission.

The planes plunged into the Atlantic Monday as parachuting airmen were running a test rescue operation for the two-man Gemini space project.

There were 24 men in the two planes. Seven were rescued. Five bodies had been recovered Monday night.

The survivors were reported in good condition.

The two planes, each carrying 12 men, brushed wings as Air Force photographers in small boats below were shooting a para-rescue training film. A Gemini capsule was in the water below, and the planes were dropping men to simulate its recovery.

A spokesman at Kindley Air Force Base, four miles from the scene, said there were indications all seven survivors had jumped before the crash as part of the scheduled test-rescue operation.

The planes were flying at about 1,500 feet on the same course when they touched, a witness said.

Each was a double-engine, propeller-driven plane.

Ross Files New Appeal To Duck Death Sentence

PITTSBURGH (AP)—Bernard Ross, who lost his death sentence appeal to the State Supreme Court last November, has again appealed to the high court.

Ross, convicted of the 1961 shooting of Mrs. Eva Mae Boston in nearby Clairton, filed his appeal Monday. He was scheduled for execution in April but U. S. District Court and Allegheny County Court judges granted stays pending appeals.

Ross' second appeal to the high court stems from an Allegheny County Court ruling rejecting his appeal.

A majority of the five Republican members of the Foreign Relations group seemed likely to side with a GOP House task force which Monday accused the Johnson administration of following a "Why win?" policy in Viet Nam and proposed a more active U.S. role in combating Communist guerrillas.

On the Democratic side, Sen. Wayne Morse of Oregon has been flailing away at the administration's course in Southeast Asia, demanding the withdrawal of U.S. troops.

Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona, front runner in the GOP nomination battle gave his "full endorsement" to the task force's findings — which were critical of South Viet Nam developments in which Lodge had played a part.

Goldwater said in a statement that the report set forth "reasons why this administration's diplomatic and military blunders are a basic issue in the 1964 election campaign."

ation to provide liberalization of liquid resources standards for the food distribution program, we assure you that the Dept. would give prompt and careful consideration to such proposals.

COMMISSIONERS Blain M. Mead and D. H. Lay today, while expressing the fact that some progress appears to be under way, inferred that the problem appears to be circulating back and forth between federal and state officials.

Although there is an area of agreement that liquid assets limitations should be raised for elderly surplus food recipients, there is some confusion as to where the responsibility for bringing about such action really lies.

STILL WITH THE DUCKS

ROCK ISLAND, Ill. (AP) — Duck hunter John F. Oberstaller says he hunted the wild game for a half century, and now that he's retired he makes miniature ducks by hand.

"I began making these little ones out of cork as a hobby," he said.

The 68-year-old retired court house employee carves the tiny fowl from chunks of discarded insulating cork and affixes heads, wings and tails carved from pine wood.

He then paints them complete with feathers until the finished product is amazingly realistic.

Some astronomers have suggested that cosmic rays may have made moon dust dangerously radioactive.

REMEMBERS FERRIS'S WHEEL

BLOOMINGTON, Ill. (AP) — The World's Columbia Exposition held in Chicago in 1893 recalls memories for Laura Eystone.

One of the highlights of her trip to the fair was riding the Ferris wheel which was built by G.E. Gale Ferris, a mechanical engineer from Galesburg, Ill., especially for the Columbian Exposition.

It was 268 feet high and carried 36 cars. Each car could accommodate 60 persons.

Miss Eystone said the cars were red-carpeted.

The wheel was sold for scrap after it was used in the St. Louis exhibition in 1904.

STARTED SMALL

LINCOLN, Neb. (AP) — You've heard of two-stage missiles, but have you heard of two-stage fish bait?

Conservation Officer Ray Frandson of the State Game Commission reports an enterprising angler at Burdard Lake in southeast Nebraska caught a 6-pound largemouth bass using the two-stage technique.

With a worm for bait, the fisherman caught a bullhead. Then using the bullhead as second-stage bait, he caught the bass.

An AP News Analysis

Less Red China War Talk Inside Administration Now

WASHINGTON (AP) — There is less Red China war talk inside the administration than there is outside.

This is causing a certain public confusion because the warnings of possible major conflict in the Far East are not supported by information on when, where and under what circumstances the conflict might begin.

There is a greater danger than home-front misunderstanding, however, because the Communist leaders in China and North Viet Nam may themselves misread the warnings which President Johnson and his associates are trying to send them. For them particularly, the central question is whether they believe what they are being told.

The administration is dealing with a fine line between bluntness and bluster in its efforts to get its message through to the Red Chinese leaders whose actions in the months ahead could very well bring on the war.

The difficulty with which Johnson and his associates are handicapped is that in this summer of presidential politics there is a potential, if not already existing, conflict between Johnson's foreign policy needs and his domestic political concerns, as seen by people close to him.

The major foreign policy issue for Johnson in the forthcoming campaign in his opinion is "peace." By this the President and his advisers mean the issues involved and the results obtained in the gradual lowering of temperatures between the Soviet Union and the United States or, more broadly, the Western allies and the Soviet bloc.

The results on which he relies for evidence of achievement by his peace policy and that of the late President John F. Kennedy include the year-old treaty putting a limited ban on nuclear weapons tests, the Washington-Moscow hot line, the nearly completed removal of Soviet troops from Cuba and the new U.S.-Soviet consular convention.

In Southeast Asia, however, there is no peace and in fact the Chinese faction of the Communist movement is on the march.

This Funny World

Probe—

hinted strongly that the commission suspects the journal of Oswald's two years in the Soviet Union got into print through the Dallas police department.

Rankin also told reporters that the commission's report—which the investigators had hoped to have ready for President Johnson by today—would not be issued until after July 18 at the earliest.

Following Rankin's announcement of the probe, Jack B. Kreuger, managing editor of the Dallas Morning News, said:

"The Warren Commission has every right to make this request of the FBI. The FBI has a right to ask us what it will, under the proper conditions."

"There are other rights involved. The American people have a right to know, particularly any facet of an assassination of a president of the United States. The American press, large and small, has an obligation to tell them. This obligation and right is enunciated in the First Amendment to the Constitution."

"The Dallas News is going to report every piece of important news to its readers to the limit of its ability."

The stories in the News contained quotations from the Oswald diary which expressed the wrath of the Marxist ex-Marine at having been denied Soviet citizenship. Rankin said the commission was seriously concerned over the breach of secrecy in materials under its control, partly because of fear that a piecemeal disclosure of the evidence might be misleading to the public.

GIFT SHIP FOR ALASKA

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP)—The earthquake that shook Alaska also shook up lumber mill operator Jack Brandis.

He started a campaign to donate lumber and plywood to needy Alaskans ravaged by the quake. He started the drive off with 50,000 feet of half-inch exterior plywood.

It touched off a groundswell of giving by forest industries throughout Oregon and Washington.

Convoys of loaded trucks rolled into Portland almost daily from mills to be put aboard the "gift ship" heading for Alaska.

The material was consigned to Alaska's Gov. William Egan.

Congo Premier Reigns Post As Last UN Troop Depart

LEOPOLDVILLE, the Congo (AP)—Premier Cyrille Adoula resigned today as the Congo marked the fourth anniversary of its independence and the last U.N. troops left the country.

President Joseph Kasavubu announced he had accepted Adoula's resignation. He said a new government would be formed in a few days.

There was widespread expectation that the new government would be headed by Moise Tshombe, the secessionist whose defiance of Adoula's government was ended by the U.N. Congo force early in 1963.

Tshombe returned last week from self-imposed exile in Europe and embarked on a reconciliation mission to bring together the still turbulent African country's feuding politicians.

The former president of Katanga Province announced Monday night that Antoine Gizenga, Communist-supported breakaway government, will be freed soon from the island prison where he has been held for 2½ years.

With Gizenga's return, all surviving political leaders at the outset of the Congo's independence will be back in the political arena.

Gizenga claimed to be Patrice Lumumba's successor when he set up his regime in the north-east Congo after Lumumba, the Congo's first premier, was murdered in Katanga.

Also back in the picture is Albert Kalonji, self-styled god-emperor of South Kasai Province, who came out of exile the day after Tshombe returned to the Congo.

Kalonji said he was willing to reconcile with all leaders except Joseph Ngalmula, who supplanted him in South Kasai.

Tshombe said he also has been promised support by Andre Lubaya, former provincial president of Kasai. Lubaya was sent across the Congo River from Brazzaville by exiled ex-themselves the "National Liberation Committee" and have been trying to overthrow the Leopoldville regime of Premier Cyrille Adoula.

Tshombe said Lubaya told him the Brazzaville committee was "prepared to back all my actions, without putting forward conditions."

If Tshombe succeeds in his peace-making role, he is given a good chance to succeed Adoula whose regime had been doomed by his failure to stem the rising tide of tribal war and rebellion in the eastern and southwest Congo.

A national referendum is under way on a new constitution that probably will result in a new central government.

The U.N. ended its military role in the former Belgian colony today for lack of money. There were no parades or ceremonies to mark either the departure of the U.N. troops or the independence anniversary.

A Canadian air force transport took off with 58 members of a Canadian army signal unit. A few minutes later a chartered DC6 left with 85 men of the Nigerian army's 1st Battalion.

The last man aboard was the U.N. force's last commander, Maj. Gen. J. Aguiyi-Ironsi of Nigeria.

Wading into the Tide

LOS ANGELES — There is something about Bobby Bragan that inspires his employers to row doggedly into the tide of public sentiment.

Bobby was managing a winter league team one time in Havana. The club was going bad. The owner invited the local press to cast a ballot on whether Bragan should be retained. The writers voted 30-3 to throw him out.

Defiantly, the owner rehired him — and Bobby came back the following winter to win the pennant.

In Milwaukee lately, the fans have been giving Bragan the bird the instant he appears on the field. The impudence on the part of these blackguards even to intimate that Bobby isn't good enough to manage the Braves has prompted the ownership to lash back. It has announced that Bragan not only will finish this season, but has been signed to a contract for 1965.

The Milwaukee owners take the position that it requires no brains to go with a guy who is winning. Appraising a loser is the real test of judgment.

Last year at this time, Bragan's team hit a slump. The management called a press conference, leading many to believe that it was goodbye Bobby. Instead, the announcement was made that he had been given a new contract.

The principal complaint on the part of fans in Milwaukee has been that Bragan has changed the lineup so often that the club has lost its stability. In a stretch of 65 games, he tried 46 different starting combinations.

No Immediate Results

Not one to proceed by the book, Bobby has done unorthodox things with his lineup for years. In his first season as a manager, in fact, he took over the Fort Worth farm for the Dodgers and made the distressing discovery that his outfielders couldn't hit.

To dramatize his predicament, in the hope of getting help from the home office, he arranged his lineup one night so that the outfielders batted seventh, eighth and ninth.

The move was widely publicized, as Bobby anticipated. Did he get help from the Dodgers?

"I got a telegram instead," he answered. "It said that if I pull another stunt like that, I was fired."

Bragan's problem in Milwaukee today is standard for a club that makes trades that don't immediately pay off. The Braves sacrificed pitching for hitting, sending Bob Shaw and Bob Hendley to the Giants for Felipe Alou and Ed Bailey.

A lefthanded batsman, Bailey was to play against righthanded pitchers, releasing regular catcher Joe Torre for service at first base.

On the drawing board, the idea was perfect. The only trouble is that Bailey has stopped hitting, which puts him in the class of Alou, Eddie Mathews and even Henry Aaron, whose firepower this year is below normal.

Charges Never Pursued

Left with thin pitching and heavy batting which has ceased to be heavy, a manager, understandably, is immersed in troubles, and his attempt to extricate himself with lineup juggling isn't at all unconventional.

When a team, baseball or football, is going bum, ownerships often compound the problem by contracting a common illness called rabbit-ears. Which is to say, they start listening to fans.

This can be a serious mistake for a very plausible reason — in the overwhelming majority of cases, fans don't know from nothin'.

When Sid Gillman was coaching the Los Angeles Rams, he met opposition from the stands each time he went for a field goal, the crowd imploring him to gamble, instead, for the first down.

He branded Los Angeles a "Go-For-It" town. He also agreed to shoot for the yardage if the fans would keep him on a yearly retainer if the gambles failed and he was fired.

Repeatedly last year, fans challenged the baseball intellect of Walter Alston. He was accused of staying too long with certain pitchers, not long enough with certain hitters and of adhering too closely to convention, charges that somehow were never pursued following the fourth game of the World Series.

If the Philadelphia ownership had yielded to the entreaties of its fans, Gene Mauch, resident genius in the National League, would have been long gone. He blew 23 games in a row in one stretch, a major league record.

One has trouble respecting a club with rabbit-ears. It suggests an editor unduly worried over readers' tastes. A good editor knows standards better than the average reader and he has unflinching faith in his judgment.

Similarly, the Milwaukee management is convinced that it knows more than its fans. This quality you have to go for.

Pitching Fails As Bucs Lose, 7-6

Pirates Lose 3rd Straight

LOS ANGELES (AP)—The Pittsburgh Pirates got help from almost every quarter but their pitchers and as a result they have now lost three straight games.

The Bucs used four pitchers Monday night and not one escaped unscathed as they lost 7-6 to the Los Angeles Dodgers.

The fourth hurler, Elroy Face, gave up two runs in the seventh and was the losing pitcher. His record now is 2-3.

of three errors and three wild pitches.

All three errors were by rookie third baseman Derrell Griffith. Two of the errors and two wild pitches came in the seventh inning when the Bucs also got a walk and four singles to score four runs and tie the game 5-5.

The singles were by Donn Clendenon, Bill Mazeroski, Bob Bailey and Monny Mota.

The other Pirate runs were scored in the second and eighth.

Right-hander Bob Priddy, the second Pirate pitcher, hit John Roseboro with a pitch after Frank Howard's homer in the fourth and drew a warning from umpire Mel Steiner. That means Priddy will be fined $50.

Joe Gibson started for the Bucs but didn't last through the first inning when the Dodgers scored their first run. Tom Sisk also pitched for Pittsburgh.

About the only high point for Pittsburgh fans listening to the game on the Pirate network was Bing Crosby's play-by-play broadcasting of the fifth inning. Crosby is a Pirate vice president. He joined regular broadcasters Bob Prince and Jim Woods in the booth for a short time.

The flame in Elroy Face's fork ball appears to be flickering. As a result, he's not putting out fires the way he once did.

Face, not long ago one of the top relief pitchers in the majors, was rocked again Monday night in Pittsburgh's 7-6 loss to the ninth-place Los Angeles Dodgers.

The 36-year-old Pirate right-hander entered the game in the seventh inning just after a four-run rally had tied the Dodgers 5-5. He retired the first batter, but before retiring the side, he walked three batters and gave up two singles, allowing the Dodgers to score two runs, which they needed for the victory.

Those unable to play at assigned tee times or unable to play at all are requested to call Elva Johanson at 723-3215.

For his brief appearance, Face suffered his third loss in five decisions and had his earned run average soar to 5.23 for 22 games.

Face's showing followed a painful pattern that has developed for the man who won 17 straight games in relief in 1959 and who has averaged 61 appearances a season for the past eight years.

He was called upon June 21 to keep the Pirates close in a game Chicago led 2-0. However, the Cubs lashed him for two runs and three hits in two-thirds of an inning.

On June 12 he replaced starter Bob Veale in the sixth inning after the Cubs had scored two runs and had two more runners on base with two out. Face put another on before Joe Amalfitano belted a grand slam homer.

In other National League games Monday, New York edged San Francisco 4-3, Houston trounced Philadelphia 6-1, Milwaukee downed St. Louis, 7-4 and Cincinnati whipped Chicago 6-1.

Frank Howard drove in three runs for the Dodgers, including the winning one with his second sacrifice fly. He also homered. The Pirates, down 5-1, had rallied for a tie on two errors by third baseman Derrell Griffith, two wild pitches by Bob Miller, a walk and singles by Donn Clendenon, Bill Mazeroski, Bob Bailey and Manny Mota.

Jesse Gonder's two-run homer in the ninth off Bob Bolin lifted the Mets to their fifth victory in 10 games with the league-leading Giants. The blow followed a one-out walk to Larry Elliot. Jim Hart belted four hits, including a fourth-inning homer, for the Giants.

Bob Aspromonte's hitting and Bob Bruce's pitching led Houston over Philadelphia. Aspromonte climaxed a five-run first inning with his second grand slam homer of the season. Bruce allowed seven hits, two after the fourth inning, and didn't walk anyone in winning his eighth game against four defeats. He retired 16 consecutive batters at one stretch.

Ed Mathews walked in his first four appearances, then homered in the ninth inning, tying the Cardinals 4-4. The Braves went on to score three more runs in the inning. Gene Oliver singled home Denis Menke with the deciding run. Mathews scored two earlier runs on singles by Lee Maye.

The Reds whipped the Cubs behind the hitting of Steve Boros and Leo Cardenas. Boros drove home two runs with a triple in the second inning while Cardenas doubled home three runs in the third. Dick Bertell homered off Jim O'Toole, who recorded his seventh triumph in 11 decisions.

Radatz Not a Monster, More Like a Machine

By HAL ROCK
Associated Press Sports Writer

Dick Radatz a monster?

Why that's silly. Any American League batter can tell you that thing Johnny Pesky keeps calling out of the Boston bullpen more like a machine.

Take Monday night for example. Radatz threw 32 pitches at Kansas City Athletics and 24 were strikes. It was his 40th appearance of the year and his 2 1-3 inning sting saved a 4-3 Red Sox victory.

The save, his third in two days, was the 13th of the season for the huge reliever whose 93 strikeouts give him second best total in the AL. Pesky's man in the bullpen sports a 1.62 earned run average and seems a shoo-in to snap Jim Konstanty's record of 74 appearances in one season.

Pesky has nothing but admiration for his stopper. "He's so important to us," the Red Sox manager says, "it's unbelievable."

Elsewhere in the AL Monday Baltimore stretched its winning streak to seven games with a 6-5 victory over Minnesota. Chicago topped Cleveland 5-1 in 10 innings and Washington defeated Detroit 5-3. New York and Los Angeles were not scheduled. Radatz came on when the Athletics had reached Sox' starter Earl Wilson and reliever Arnold Earley for two runs in the seventh. He got pinch hitter Doc Edwards to fly out and then stifled the Athletics the rest of the way.

Boston shortstop Eddie Bressoud drove in two runs with a double and a triple and scored another after walking. The hits pulled Bressoud's average to .304 and ended a lengthy slump that had dropped him below .300 for the first time this season.

Robin Roberts survived two solo home runs by Tony Oliva and Harmon Killebrew's 28th circuit as the Orioles extended their league lead to 4 1/2 games over the idle Yankees.

Norm Siebern hammered a two-run shot for the Orioles, who have won 10 of their last 11 games in their drive to the Sam McDowell had the White Sox blanked for 8 2-3 innings but Mike Hershberger's bases loaded single sent it into extra innings. Chicago then exploded for four runs in the 10th with run-scoring doubles by Tom McCraw and J. C. Martin the key.

Jim King clouted a two-run homer and Ed Brinkman delivered a long sacrifice fly to give Washington its victory. It ended a six-game losing streak for the Claude Osteen, who won his sixth game, doubled in front of King's 12th homer in the fifth inning. Then Brinkman's sacrifice fly brought Don Lock home with the deciding run in an inning later. Lock had walked and moved up on Mike Brumley's double.

Hot Stove Results

Wins 6th Straight

The Style Shop won their sixth straight ball game downing Warren Kiwanis by the score of 6-1. Doug Solow was the winning hurler in going the distance and allowing only four base hits. Gary Hoffman suffered the defeat for the Kiwanis.

Chain Belt Loses

Carl California pitched and hit his way past the Rex Chain Belt ball club as Carson Finance breezed by their opponents to the tune of 15-2. California went 3-3 at the plate with two doubles. Dave Saporito was the losing hurler for Rex Chain Belt.

Waxman's Wins, 10-2

Waxman's Furniture managed to run up a 10-2 victory over Taylor's Pharmacy behind Bob Sorenson's pitching and hitting. Sorenson threw a one-hitter at the losers and clubbed a pair of doubles when it came his turn at the plate. Kim Rice aided the winning cause with a homer and a double. Neil Waxman and Craig Dalrymple smashed doubles for the winners in their quest for victory. Foley was the losing hurler and Connolly collected the only extra base hit, a homer to center field.

Remain Undefeated

Betts Machine Shop remains undefeated as they managed to barely get by Nichols Service Station Jolly Green Giants, 4-2. Dick Chapel was the winning hurler and Jim Albaugh suffered the defeat. Both pitchers struck out 11 batters. A triple play in the top of the first inning was the outstanding fielding play of the game for the Betts nine. Jim Suppa and Sam Ponsoll executed the fine bit of fielding. Jo-B Bevevino's homer in the top of the seventh inning highlighted the hitting action for both teams. Jay Rodriguez knocked in the other run for the losing team.

Golfers, 12, 84, Have Holes-in-1

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — Two holes in one were scored Monday at Twin Hills Country Club here. The aces were the first for each of the golfers.

William Hoskinson got his on the 147-yard No. 11. Jay Buxton holed his tee shot on the 150-yard No. 4.

Buxton is 12 years old, Hoskinson is 84.

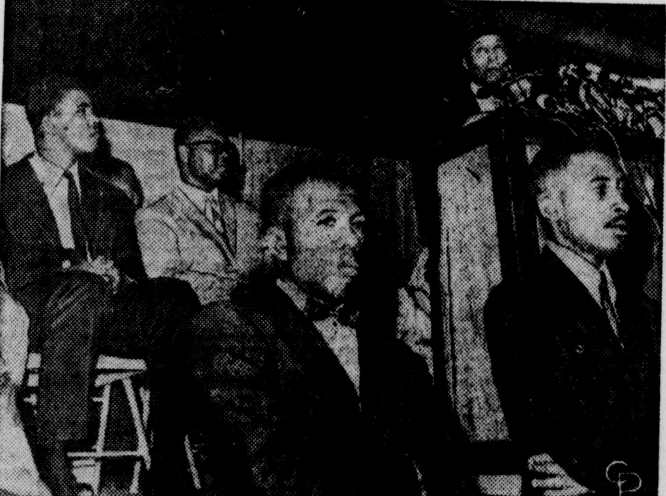

The youngster has been playing two years. Hoskinson took up the game 34 years ago when he was 50.

"This just proves that if you live long enough and keep trying, anything is possible," Hoskinson said.

Injured Gentle Out of Action

BOSTON (AP) — Kansas City slugger Jim Gentile is not expected to return to action until after the All-Star game, the club announced Monday night.

Gentile pulled a cartilage from a rib on his left side June 25 and was sent home for examination and treatment.

mid-season classics, was prominent among the latest additions. Manager Al Lopez, as did National pilot Walter Alston, followed the players' balloting down the line in naming their second choices. Lopez also added first baseman-outfielder Joe Pepitone of the New York Yankees "because he can play two positions."

Lopez will complete selection of an eight-man pitching staff, to be announced Wednesday night. The game will be played July 7 at New York's Shea Stadium.

Chicago, now in third place but in the thick of the pennant fight all season, failed to place a man among the 17 non-pitchers. So did Cleveland and Kansas City. Since all teams have to be represented, Lopez must consider that factor in his pitching picks.

Detroit dominates the additions made today with catcher Bill Freehan and second baseman Jerry Lumpe joining outfielder Kaline who has been selected for the 10th time—second only to Mickey Mantle's 13. In 12 All-Star contests, Kaline has batted .345 with two homers and six RBI.

First baseman Norm Siebern and shortstop Luis Aparicio represent Baltimore.

Boston third baseman Frank Malzone, outfielders Jimmy Hall of Minnesota and Chuck Hinton of Washington and Pepitone also were named.

Previously announced as starters were Elston Howard, Mantle & Bobby Richardson of the Yankees; rookie Tony Oliva, Harmon Killebrew and Bob Allison of the Twins; Baltimore third baseman Brooks Robinson and Los Angeles shortstop Jim Fregosi.

Hinton, Freehan and Kaline are among the leading nine league batsmen along with starters Allison, Oliva, Robinson, Fregosi, Mantle and Howard.

Track Coach Says Reds' Team 'Good'

NEW YORK (AP)—The United States has a strong track team, maybe its best ever, for the dual meet with Russia next month.

But, Coach Sam Bell quickly points out, that doesn't mean we're home safe. In fact, we could be in trouble.

"The Russian team is a strong one," warned the Oregon State coach who will guide the U.S. team in the meet with Russia's best at Los Angeles July 25-26. "It's possible our team is the strongest we have ever had and we won't do as well as other times in the past because the Russian team definitely is the strongest it has ever been," Bell said Monday.

The U.S. men have won all five previous meets with Russia. The U.S. team this year will be made up of the first two finishers in each event in last weekend's National AAU championships at New Brunswick, N.J.

And AAU Executive Director Col. Don Hull said some additional names may be added to the team after this weekend's Olympic trials at Randall's Island in New York.

"This is not going to be a friendly joust," Bell said of the Russian meet. "Both teams, both countries, will be going all out. There's a lot at stake."

Redskins Sign 2

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Washington Redskins of the National Football League announced today the signing of two rookies, end Russ Brown of the University of Florida, and halfback Ozzie Clay of Iowa State University.

THE GLAD MAN — Tony Lema tosses his putter and it wasn't because he was mad. Tony had just birdied the first extra hole in a playoff with Arnold Palmer for the top spot in the $110,000 Cleveland Open Golf Tournament, Lema winning it and the $20,000 first place money. Lema and Palmer finished in a tie with 270s after regulation play. Palmer received $12,000 in second place money.

Ken Boyer: Bridesmaid But Never the Bride!

By MIKE RECHT
Associated Press Sports Writer

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Always a bridesmaid; never a bride. That's Ken Boyer of the St. Louis Cardinals.

Boyer has given the Cardinals nine years of consistent performance that have made him an outstanding third baseman in the National League.

But the big right-hander hitter has never had the sensational year that would take him out of the shadow of Stan Musial, or Hank Aaron, or Willie Mays. He has never led the league in hitting, or runs batted in, or home runs. He has never been its most valuable player.

"I've always wanted to drive in 100 runs, hit 300 homers and bat .300 in one season," said Boyer, who is probably one of the best all-around third basemen in St. Louis has ever had. "I've had them all in separate seasons, but never together."

Boyer hit 32 homers in 1960, he has hit more than .300 five times, and he has driven in 111 runs in a season. His steady play is shown in the last six years in which he has driven in more than 90 runs, hit more than 20 homers and hit more than .285 each season. He has been named to the National League All-Star team for six straight years, including this season.

At the age of 33, Boyer is off to his greatest year in run production with a chance to step into the spotlight. He leads the league in RBI with 54. Boyer has 12 homers and is hitting .297.

Boyer has averaged more than 150 games a year for the Cardinals, but "that 162-game schedule is rough." "When you work in an office," he said "you get two days off a week. Think of how it is working seven days week after week. You can't rest physically or mentally."

"I can feel things I didn't feel two years ago. It's nothing serious, but I don't always have that 'zip' I had earlier."

Another Match Booked for Pro Mat Show Here

Another match has been booked for the Warren Jaycees' Fourth of July professional wrestling card scheduled for the afternoon of the Fourth on War Memorial Field.

Richie "Kid" Dalton, who bills himself as the middle-weight wrestling champion of the United States, will face Buddy Cole in a special one-fall match.

In the past Dalton has faced such wrestling greats as Argentina Rocca, Lou Thess, Mike Gallagher and many more. Cole, according to reports, is the only wrestler to defeat Dalton in the last six months.

Cole, according to promoters of the match, has promised to upend Dalton again and move into the top spot in the middle-weight ranks.

Other matches on the card include Apache Kid against Killer Joe. In the feature event of the afternoon, a six-man tag team affair, Ed Faieta, Tony "Little Flower" Gardenia and "Tiger" Fred Geiger will go against Dino Appollo, Norm Rasp and The Beachcomer.

Tickets are available at the B & B Smoke Shop, United News, Prosen's Barber Shop and several taverns in the Warren area. Tickets are priced at $2.50 for ringside, $1.50 for general admission and $1 for students.

Stewart 2-Hits Bakers; Icemen Triumph, 7-1

Paced by a four-run third inning and a two-run fourth frame, City Ice and Beverage knocked off Ideal Bakery last night 7-1, in the only game scheduled in the City Softball League.

Ideal's Kenny Hoffman ruined Dean Stewart's bid for a ro-hitter by belting a homer over the centerfield fence and a double. They were the only two hits Stewart gave up. Don Gheres took the loss allowing only four hits.

Fred Gray provided the power for City Ice with a triple and double driving in four runs while he scored another himself.

McKinley's Net Trials Get Rougher

By GEOFFREY MILLER
Associated Press Writer

WIMBLEDON, England (AP) — Things aren't getting any easier for Chuck McKinley in defense of his Wimbledon tennis championship. They just seem that way.

After all, he has yet to face veteran Australian internationalist Fred Stolle and either top-seeded Roy Emerson or German upset-maker Wilhelm Bungert.

But they're all right-handed. And brash, bounding Chuck has had his troubles with the lefties.

The San Antonio, Tex., star moved into Wednesday's semifinals with a struggling 6-3, 6-3, 4-6, 6-4 decision over unseeded Abe Segal of South Africa Monday.

So far the 23-year-old Texan has lost five sets. All but one have been to lefties. Last year he didn't lose a one en route to the title.

The Wednesday semis have McKinley against Stolle and Emerson, the top-heavy favorite to win it all, playing Bungert. Each is a rematch. Bungert upset Emerson in the quarter-finals last year, then lost to McKinley in the semis. Chuck took the title with a victory over Stolle.

Bungert, possibly Germany's best since World War II, pulled another major surprise Monday, whipping Rafael Osuna, the Mexican-born U.S. national champion in straight sets, 6-4, 6-2, 6-3.

Emerson advanced with a matter of fact 6-1, 6-4, 6-4 triumph over fellow Australian Bob Hewitt, while Stolle eliminated Christian Kuhnke of Germany 6-3, 7-5, 6-3.

Your Horoscope

By FRANCES DRAKE

(Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.)

FOR WEDNESDAY, JULY 1

MARCH 21 to APRIL 20 (Aries) — Don't give up the "bird in the hand" for the "two in the bush!" Small opportunities grasped in turn will lead to surer gains than will scattered seekings.

APRIL 21 to MAY 21 (Taurus) — You may have to work extra hard to keep this day up to par—and to present yourself at your best. Pick up those loose ends, retouch, finish.

MAY 22 to JUNE 21 (Gemini) — Your Mercury encourages intellectual pursuits now. Give of your best and you can go far. In leisure time, plan to do something out of the ordinary.

JUNE 22 to JULY 23 (Cancer) — Not everyone or thing will please, but day is favorable, and if you remain steadfast in pursuit of progress and willing to meet others half way, you will more than get by.

Whiskey, Pills Being Smuggled Into Workhouse?

PITTSBURGH (AP)—There are indications whiskey and pills are being smuggled into and sold in the Allegheny County Workhouse, the Pittsburgh Post-Gazette, quoting a State Corrections Bureau report, said in today's edition.

The newspaper quoted Robert A. Itri, state prison inspector director, as saying prisoners report seeing empty whiskey bottles and "that pills are being sold for cash and cigarettes."

Italian Christian Democrats Seeking New Center-Left Coalition Government

ROME (AP) — Italy's Christian Democrat party called today for another center-left coalition to replace the government of Premier Aldo Moro that fell five days ago.

This appeared to smooth the way toward a solution of the government crisis. The other parties of the coalition—the Socialists and the Communists—already have come out for another center-left Cabinet with Christian Democrat Moro as premier.

The Christian Democrats did not say whether they want Moro back as premier. A statement by the party blamed the Socialists for the crisis.

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet Union's chief spokesman at the Geneva disarmament talks says Red China wants its own nuclear weapons because Peking knows it can't always count on Soviet nuclear support.

Writing in the government newspaper Izvestia, Deputy Foreign Minister Valerian A. Zorin singled out a little-noticed Soviet statement of last Sept. 21.

The statement said the Chinese would want their own nuclear weapons if they intended to pursue policies "which the Socialist camp cannot support by its military force."

Zorin's article was interpreted in Western quarters as another veiled warning to the Chinese to avoid a major explosion in Southeast Asia.

HONG KONG (AP) — Hong Kong goes back on normal water rations Wednesday after 13 months of two buckets daily per person.

Normal water rations in Hong Kong are eight hours supply a day. During the worst of the British colony's record drought, residents were restricted to four hours supply every four days.

A drought, last month broke the drought with more than 10 inches of rain.

LONDON (AP)—Three thousand television employees decided to strike at midnight against Britain's commercial television network.

The producers, directors, floor managers and engineers want more money. The union is asking for a 25 per cent increase in wages that range from $42 to $168 a week.

GLF, Farmer's Exchange Merge To Become New Firm, Agway, Inc.

Cooperative GLF Exchange Inc. and Eastern States Farmer's Exchange Inc., two of the nation's oldest farmer cooperatives, officially become Agway Inc. on July 1.

THE LOCAL GLF center is located on Route 6, beyond the Glade Bridge. Other GLF agencies are located throughout the county.

The merger of the two organizations was approved by memberships of both GLF and Eastern States at meetings last February.

HEADQUARTERS of Agway will be in Syracuse, N. Y., although former headquarters of the two merging organizations — GLF at Ithaca, N. Y. and Eastern States at West Springfield, Mass. — will continue to function.

Agway will provide purchasing and marketing services for farmers across the Northeast in Maine, New Hampshire, Vermont, Massachusetts, Connecticut, Rhode Island, New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Delaware and parts of Maryland and Ohio.

AGWAY IS expected to have more than $300 million annual volume in sales of farm production supplies and marketing of farm products. Membership will be about 200,000, the combined stockholders and owners of GLF and Eastern States.

Names of the production and marketing facilities owned by the new corporation will change effective July 1, as will those of former Eastern States service centers in New England and the Middle Atlantic states.

Local GLF service agencies and Eastern States local representatives will not necessarily change their corporate or business names at this time, but will handle Agway products and provide Agway services.

Channel Chatter

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

[EDITOR'S NOTE — Television's "Dr. Kildare," Richard Chamberlain, writes as a guest for Cynthia Lowry who is on vacation.]

By RICHARD CHAMBERLAIN

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — One hundred down and 34 to go—for this season.

When Raymond Massey and I recently cut a "birthday" cake marking the completion of our 100th show for "Dr. Kildare," that was our main feeling. But the thoughts that went through my mind were many and varied.

I've often been asked if I were not bored with the intern grown into a resident; impatient of dialogue with those tongue-twisting medical terms; frustrated with having my leading ladies die in the closing moments.

I've even been misinterpreted when I said I wouldn't do another television series. It looked in print as though I were fed up with "Dr. Kildare," and ready to call it quits at the drop of a suture.

Another series after Kildare? No, because, after Kildare there are many other things I hope to do. But, boredom? No, I'm grateful to say, that hasn't set in. And I don't expect it will. In the first place, who has time to become bored? Not with 33 or 34 television shows a year, roughly the equivalent of 20 full-length motion pictures.

There is no substitute for experience, and that I'm certainly getting — and I'm still learning from Kildare.

One scarcely could work with Raymond Massey and not learn daily something about his craft. Nor with such guest stars as Cyril Ritchard, Walter Pidgeon or Douglas Fairbanks Jr.

There are plans for the season ahead that help alleviate any tendency toward boredom. This year for instance, we'll do our first three-part story, with an Italian background when Dr. Gillespie takes Kildare with him to Rome.

My own thoughts as we start a new season cannot help but include my own ambitions beyond "Dr. Kildare." I hope for a wider range of roles; to do more feature motion pictures, and — when time allows — to gain the experience an actor can find only in front of live audiences on the stage. Music, especially musical theater, always has been an objective although my full concentration now is on drama except for singing on an occasional record.

I feel that Kildare is continuing to bring these goals within my reach.

Besides, nobody gets bored in a hospital — except the patients.

Try and Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

VAUGHN MEADER, who became famous for his uncanny impersonation of the late President Kennedy, has, of course, had to revamp not only his entire act, but his personality as well. That the new act is off to a big start is a tribute to his skill and versatility. Now he conducts a seminar for pet owners in which he portrays the pipe-puffing Dr. Bow-Wow. To the typical question, "What can I do if my dog has ticks?" he answers imperturbably, "Don't wind him."

Reminiscing about his home town, Waterville, Maine, Meader observes that "It's so small, the local Howard Johnson branch has only one flavor."

Driving on one of California's jammed-up freeways, observed Matt Weinstock, you can watch a drive-in movie, follow a revolving searchlight in the sky, and wave at a blonde in a sports car—all in the same accident.

Patrick Cutting, spoofing impoverished British lords who have turned their estates into tourist traps for credulous Americans, has invented a character named Lord Grope (in his book, "Tourist Attraction"), who opens a nobby little cafeteria just outside of the prehistoric ruins of Stonehenge. The two concoctions that sell most readily there, of course, are called "Druidburgers" and "Mead-Shakers."

LBj Orders More Action In Search for Workers
PHILADELPHIA, Miss. (AP) —The search for the three civil rights workers who vanished nine days ago was stepped up today at the direction of President Johnson.

The Mississippi Highway Patrol also made it clear it was in this red-clay hill country of east central Mississippi to stay until authorities find out what happened to the missing trio.

Rita Schwerner, 22, wife of Michael Schwerner of Brooklyn, one of the missing men, asked the President Monday to send 5,000 men to Mississippi to join in the search.

Mrs. Schwerner, after meeting with the President at the White House, told newsmen Johnson advised her he couldn't send so many.

Schwerner, 24; Andrew Goodman, 20, another white New Yorker; and James Chaney, 22, a Negro from nearby Meridian, were last seen June 21 when they were freed from jail here after posting a $20 bond in a traffic case.

Before Mrs. Schwerner visited the White House, press secretary George Reedy told reporters that efforts to find the trio had been stepped up and expanded.

Mrs. Schwerner said the President assured her that the federal government is "doing everything in its power."

The President, Mrs. Schwerner added, said if he "considered it useful to send more men, then he would send more."

Federal and state authorities, joined by 100 sailors from the Navy airfield at Meridian, continued their search in the hills and snake-infested swamps of Neshoba County.

State game wardens, using radio-equipped skiffs, dragged the muddy Pearl River and other bodies of water in the area.

"We've covered 55 miles of the Pearl itself and haven't found even a net," said Dewitt Hutton of the State Game and Fish Commission.

The FBI ordered several thousand circulars of the three youths distributed in a five-state area. The circulars asked anyone with information to call FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover or the nearest FBI office.

Trooper Helps Rescue Goods From Blaze

An alert State Trooper from the Warren sub-station and a neighbor joined forces yesterday afternoon to remove the furniture from the burning home of Leroy Flasher at Patchen Hollow near Sugar Grove.

Trooper Gallagher told The Times-Mirror today that he discovered the fire at 3:10 p. m. yesterday while on routine patrol. He said that he, assisted by Mrs. Lena M. Black, RD 2, Sugar Grove, removed the furniture from Flasher's home, after he had radioed his sub-station to call Sugar Grove firemen.

According to Sugar Grove Fire Chief Carl Wolcott, fire was of undetermined origin, damage was extensive in the upper part of the two-story frame structure. Wolcott said the roof was burned away and the upper walls were also damaged.

It was reported that the Flasher family were not at home when the blaze broke out. Fire officials stated they expect damage to run several thousand dollars and that the Flasher residence is partially covered by insurance.

The Youngsville Volunteer Fire Department assisted in bringing the blaze under control under mutual aid.

RFK Says His Brother Not 'Victim of Communism'

WARSAW, Poland (AP) — Robert F. Kennedy declared Monday night that his brother, the assassinated president, was not the victim of a conspiracy or of communism.

The U.S. attorney general told a Polish questioner in Krakow "there is no question" that Lee Harvey Oswald killed President

John F. Kennedy and "did it on his own and by himself."

Hieronym Kubiak, 25, head of the Polish Student Union, had asked Kennedy for his version of his brother's assassination in Dallas, Tex., last year.

"Ideology in my opinion did not motivate his act," Kennedy said. "It was the single act of an individual protesting against society."

There has been considerable speculation in Europe that the slayings of Kennedy and of Oswald by Dallas cafe owner Jack Ruby were part of a conspiracy.

Aides said it was the first time the attorney general had spoken publicly about who killed his brother.

The question came up during the second day of his visit to Poland. Before leaving the country this afternoon, Kennedy was scheduled to go to Czestochowa, spiritual center of Catholic Poland.

Oil Rig Explodes, Two Are Killed

MORGAN CITY, La. (AP)—A floating oil rig exploded before dawn today off the Louisiana coast leaving at least two persons dead and 13 others missing.

The Coast Guard said 27 survivors, all badly burned, had been picked up and were being taken in helicopters to this coastal fishing town.

At least 42 men were on board the floating drilling rig, which the Coast Guard said was operating 78 miles southeast of here.

The rig collapsed and sank after the explosion.

The Coast Guard cutters Point Lee and Point Young were standing by at the scene along with a commercial tugboat, the M.P. Anderson, and a small motor vessel, the West Tide.
